Continuity and Discontinuity Morna D. Hooker, 2018-04-06 In the course of time the antagonism between Jew and Christian became so bitter that Christians began to behave like cuckoos or like tycoons who had taken over the company So concerned were they with their own position in God's scheme of salvation that they ceased to ask fundamental questions about God's purpose for Israel according to the flesh They forgot that poignant verse in Romans in which Paul declares I could wish that I myself were accursed and cut off from Christ for the sake of my brothers my kinsmen by race For by the time that the church had become a predominantly Gentile community it had been cut off not from Christ but from Paul's kinsmen I have been attempting in these lectures to understand the situation of those who wrestled with the problem of relating old and new in the first years of the Christian era if we wish to understand the origins of our faith then clearly it is essential to explore the context in which it was first formulated It may well be that the way in which these men and women related old and new may be of help to Christians today who experience the tension between past tradition and present experience It may be that a better understanding of what was going on as the Christian community sought to establish its own identity could affect our attitudes to questions concerning Jewish Christian relationships today

Jesus and Paul in the Context of Judaism and Early Christianity Donald A. Hagner, 2025-03-27 In the late nineteenth century Jewish scholars began to be interested in Jesus and eventually Paul as important figures in the history of the Jewish people Rightly understood they argued Jesus and Paul belonged more to Judaism than to Christianity as even radical critical Christian scholars were concluding The earliest believers in Jesus were exclusively Jews forming something like a new sect within Judaism The emergence of the Christianity of the New Testament soon became a focus of attention for Jewish scholars and with this a host of questions arose such as about the influence of Hellenism the parting of the ways the widespread Christian misperception of Judaism the tragedy of anti-Semitism and the identity of Jesus as Messiah and Lord The present essays address these and other issues maintaining throughout the tension of continuity and discontinuity and stressing the underappreciated radical newness of the New Testament

Building on the Ruins of the Temple Adam Gregerman, 2016-06-28 In the immediate centuries after the Romans' destruction of Jerusalem and its Temple in 70 CE Jews and Christians offered contrasting religious explanations for the razing of the locus of God's presence on earth Adam Gregerman analyzes the views found in three early Christian texts Justin's Dialogue with Trypho Origen's Contra Celsum and Eusebius Proof of the Gospel and one rabbinic text the Midrash on Lamentations all of which emerged in the same place the land of Israel and around the same time the first few centuries after 70 The author explores the ways they interpret the destruction in order to prove in the case of Christians or make it impossible to disprove in the case of the Jews that their community is the people of God He demonstrates the apologetic and polemical functions of selected explanations for claims to the covenant made by one community excluded those made by the other
