Kumar, Records & Briefs , The PFI Contract for the Redevelopment of West Middlesex University Hospital Great Britain. National Audit Office, 2002 In January 2001 the West Middlesex University Hospital Trust let a PFI contract to a private sector consortium Bywest The contract is for 35 years with an estimated present net value of 125 million Bywest are required to develop the Trust s site at Isleworth and then to provide ongoing maintenance and facilities services The report contrasts the PFI deal as contracted against the conventional procurement alternative It finds that the deal meets expected local needs in getting the best available PFI deal the Trust applied common sense and had learnt from earlier experience elsewhere in the NHS the Trust considered that the unquantifiable benefits of the PFI deal outweighed the disbenefits The NAO makes further recommendations for those engaged in PFI projects building on those made in its earlier report on Dartford and Gravesham Hospital HCP 423 1998 99 ISBN 0102661995 Copyright Limitations and Contracts: An Analysis of the Contractual Overridability of Limitations on Copyright Lucie

Guibault, 2002-02-19 This book explores this conflict focusing on statutory copyright limitations that enshrine constitutional rights such as freedom of expression and privacy foster dissemination of knowledge safeguard competition and protect authors from market failure It explains the rationale for these limitations and questions the legality of overriding them by contractual means The author finds a complex array of factors clouding the emergence of coherent rules in the matter and points out that the United States Uniform Computer Information Transactions Act UCITA leaves this issue essentially unresolved Among the author's insights is that contrary to the commonly held notion that the Internet is a bastion of free speech in fact it is now possible via encryption technology to exercise absolute control over copyrighted material even under circumstances of global mass distribution

Committee of Public Accounts, 2004 Between April 2001 and July 2002 over one thousand NHS clinical staff were suspended for more than a month This not only costs the NHS more than 40 million it also adversely affects the clinicians even if they are exonerated This report based on a report from the Comptroller and Auditor General HC 1143 2002 03 ISBN 0102923558 examines the scale and costs of exclusions and the way the process could be better managed It finds that there is a need for accurate and timely reporting of exclusions and another survey to determine the true cost Also the guidance issued in 2003 only applies to doctors similar guidance is needed for other clinical staff

Marine Resources Max Falque, Michael De Alessi, Henri Lamotte, 2002 More than 70% of the planet Earth is covered by oceans where property rights are poorly defined and enforced Since ocean resources are fully exploited because of new technologies and population growth conventional regulatory methods command and control have failed to prevent pervasive overexploitation and conflicts Some places are more or less considered as dumping sites and or overexploited The ancient and numerous regulations have generally failed to address growing pressures on fish and other ecological resources Of course the idea of fencing the oceans may appear improbable but for ages private often common property institutions have succeeded in regulating fishing activities Today individual transferrable quotas may pave the way for rationalizing uses conserving natural resources and reducing conflicts or maybe not
