Trends in Contrast Media Henrik S. Thomsen, Robert N. Muller, Robert F. Mattrey, 2012-12-06 The use of contrast media within diagnostic radiology has been firmly established for many years now Radiologic contrast media render immense services in daily clinical practice to innumerable patients all over the world When the new cross sectional modalities such as computed tomography and magnetic resonance imaging were introduced into clinical practice it rapidly became evident that the judicious use of contrast media allows the optimal exploitation of the great diagnostic potential of these revolutionary methods More recently efforts to create specific contrast media for ultrasound imaging have been successful and the first beneficial results of their application in daily practice are now evident The aim of this book is to bring together the results of the tremendous research that has been performed during recent years in order to develop specific contrast media for magnetic resonance imaging and ultrasonography and also to develop safer contrast media for the classical radiologic techniques as well as computed tomography Moreover the book provides a comprehensive overview of the indications for and applications of these new contrast media in clinical radiology Finally risks side effects and complications which may occur with the use of these drugs are covered appropriately The three editors are leading and well known experts in their specific field They have been very successful in ensuring the collaboration of so many internationally known specialists to cover the different topics dealt with in this book

Contrast Media in Radiology M. Amiel,2012-12-06 Journalists always very direct and in search of sensation essentially asked me two questions on the occasion of this workshop What were the goals of the meeting With the improvement of diagnosis through the development of image techniques didn't the contrast media already have their future behind them Many answers were provided during the course of the workshop and in order to best answer the journalists I proposed the following synopsis 1 Since the 1979 Colorado Springs workshop organized by E Lasser progress has been so rapid and the newly available works so numerous that another meeting on an international level for the purpose of presenting and discussing these advances appeared indispensable Why not then in Europe and why not in Lyon To expand on this progress by 1981 the new contrast media with less hyperosmolar molecules still in the trial stage in 1979 were almost all available commercially for angiography albeit at prohibitive prices The advantages of these various media are becoming better known moreover in the wake of Lasser's work our understanding of the pathophysiology of their noxious effects is also advancing rapidly owing to the use of models for the target organs heart vessel wall nervous system kidney and for the more general reactions blood cells coagulation complement system circulating enzymatic systems In addition further new molecules are currently being studied in research laboratories 2 X-Ray Contrast Media Ulrich Speck, 2012-12-06 Short presentation of aspects important for the application of X ray contrast media Composition and properties of contrast media handling with respect to stability purity and sterility applications interaction risks drugs for prophylaxis and treatment of side effects Contrast Media in Urography, Angiography and Computerized Tomography P. Anger, 1983 Contrast Media in MRI G. Bydder, 1990

Pharmaceuticals in Medical Imaging Dennis P. Swanson, Henry M. Chilton, James H. Thrall, 1990 Radioccontrast Agents M. Sovak, 2012-12-06 Contrast media are drugs by default Had there been no default there would be no need for a related pharmacology and thus no need for this book Radiographic contrast media CM are substances whose primary purpose is to enhance diagnostic information of medical imaging systems The position of CM in pharmacology is unique First there is the unusual requirement of biological inertness An ideal CM should be completely biologically inert i.e. stable not pharmacologically active and efficiently and innocuously excretable Because they fail to meet these requirements CM must be considered drugs The second unusual aspect of CM is that they are used in large quantities their annual production being measured in tens of tons It is not in spite of but because of the increased use of new radiographic systems computed tomography digital radiography etc that consumption is on the rise And it is not likely that the other emerging imaging modalities NMR ultrasonography etc will displace radiographic CM soon it is quite probable that these remarkable compounds will continue to play an active role in diagnostic imaging in the foreseeable future Manual on Contrast Media American College of Radiology. Committee on Drugs and Contrast Media, 2004 Textbook of Contrast Media Peter Dawson, David O. Cosgrove, Ronald G Grainger, 1999-10-01 This book is the first to cover the field of contrast media from basic sciences through to clinical practice Textbook of Contrast Media provides the first exhaustive account of the use of contrast media in clinical practice Edited by distinguished figures in the field the book is divided into five main sections history and background X ray contrast agents MR contrast agents ultrasound contrast agents and future developments Each chapter is fully referenced and benefits from the extensive use of high quality radiographs and illustrations Contrast Agents I Werner Krause, 2003-07-01 Extracellular MRI and X ray contrast agents are characterized by their pharmacokinetic behaviour After intravascular injection their plasma level time curve is characterized by two phases The agents are rapidly distributed between plasma and interstitial spaces followed by renal elimination with a terminal half life of approximately 1 2 hours They are excreted via the kidneys in unchanged form by glomerular filtration Extracellular water soluble contrast agents to be applied for X ray imaging were introduced into clinical practice in 1923 Since that time they have proved to be most valuable tools in diagnostics They contain iodine as the element of choice with a sufficiently high atomic weight difference to organic tissue As positive contrast agents their attenuation of radiation is higher compared with the attenuation of the surrounding tissue By this contrast enhancement X ray diagnostics could be improved dramatically In 2 4 6 triiodobenzoic acid derivatives iodine is firmly bound Nowadays diamides of the 2 4 6 triiodo 5 acylamino isophthalic acid like iopromide Ultravist Fig 1 are used as non ionic neutral X ray contrast agents in most cases 1 Contrast Media ,1987
