Good Content Stanley Ideris, 2018-08-07 Technoliberalism and the End of Participatory Culture in the United States Adam Fish, 2017-04-18

This new book examines whether television can be used as a tool not just for capitalism but for democracy Throughout television's history activists have attempted to access it for that very reason New technologies cable satellite and the internet provided brief openings for amateur and activist engagement with television This book elaborates on this history by using ethnographic data to build a new iteration of liberalism technoliberalism which sees Silicon Valley technology and the free market of Hollywood end the need for a politics of participation

The Rise of the Curator Class Steffen Davis, 2019-03-14 Pairing big ideas in marketing with the popular activity of content curation The Rise of the Curator Class positions curation as a humanization movement that is restructuring the internet Curation is set to overturn the 2.2 trillion global creative industry revolutionizing how we create market and discover content In the era of content overload and fake news in which everything to buy listen to read or watch is available online there is one group of people who have learned to thrive in this climate of superabundance the curator class whose influence and power grows as more people look to them as guides This new curator class is rewriting traditional curation tackling the overload and making sense of it for others In the past curation was available to an elite few Now internet platforms such as Pinterest Spotify and Twitter empower hundreds of millions of people to curate their ideas for anyone who may be interested revolutionizing how content is marketed and sold The Rise of the Curator Class explains how curation is disrupting internet commerce as consumer trust moves farther away from traditional brands and closer to the curators who lead tastes and it equips readers to think critically about how curation can work for them
