Geertz Prize in the Anthropology of Religion Society for the Anthropology of Religion Around the turn of the millennium Pentecostal churches began to pepper majority Buddhist Sri Lanka setting off a sense of alarm among Buddhists who saw Christianity as a neocolonial threat to the nation Rumors of foul play in the death of a Buddhist monk as well as allegations of proselytizing in the aftermath of the 2004 tsunami and during the final stages of civil war spurred nationalist anxieties moral panics and even episodes of violence by Buddhists against Christians suspected of facilitating unethical conversions Through vivid ethnography and keen observations of media events Karma and Grace illuminates disputes over religious freedom and pluralism amid the rise of charismatic Christianity in Sri Lanka Neena Mahadev explores the dueling efforts of Buddhist nationalists and Christian evangelists to reshape Sri Lanka's religious economic and political landscapes. She considers theological and political impasses between Buddhism's vast timescales of karma and Christians' promises of the immediacy of their God's salvific grace. While Christian missions spread the Good News, subsets of Buddhists produced bad press, sting operations and disparaging media to impede born-again churches from taking root. In gripping detail, Mahadev recounts how modernist and traditionalist Theravada Buddhists, Pentecostal newcomers, long-established Christian denominations, local deity and spirit cults and the innovations of mavericks intermingle in a multireligious public sphere. Even amid trenchant conflicts, Karma and Grace demonstrates that social proximity between rivals is also conducive to religious experimentation and the ambiguities of identity that allow Sri Lankans to live with difference. Europe Old and New Ray Taras, 2008-07-31

Is Europe indeed uniting or instead falling apart as a result of anti-immigrant prejudices, a massive Islamic influx and ancient intra-European hatreds? This innovative and engaging book explores this key question by examining the national and religious phobias and prejudices, antipathies and sympathies, stereotypes and heterotypes of Europe west and east. Considering the sources of Europe's culture-based divide, Ray Taras argues that the idea of two Europes is grounded both in reality and myth. The accession process that brought a dozen new members into the European Union after 2004 highlighted the persisting gulf between old and new Europe. While many concrete borders between east and west were removed, commercial, legal, passport regimes, many remained. Absence of a single Euro currency zone, labor market and security community. Virtual borders too were invented or reimagined. The postmaterialist, inclusionary, tolerant values supposedly found in old Europe versus the materialist, nationalistic, xenophobic ones of new Europe. After reviewing the two Europes' contrasting historical legacies, Taras examines the EU institutions designed to overcome the historical European divide. He considers the treaties, political rhetoric, citizen attitudes and literary narratives of belonging and separation that both bind and fray the fabric of Europe. Throughout this interdisciplinary work, he provides a comprehensive, hard-hitting and unabashed review of how enlarged Europe embraces contrasting understandings of its political home and of who belongs and who does not. Millennial monuments
