Frontier Seaport Catherine Cangany, 2024-05-31
Detroit's industrial health has long been crucial to the American economy Today's troubles notwithstanding Detroit has experienced multiple periods of prosperity particularly in the second half of the eighteenth century when the city was the center of the thriving fur trade Its proximity to the West as well as its access to the Great Lakes and the St Lawrence River positioned this new metropolis at the intersection of the fur rich frontier and the Atlantic trade routes In Frontier Seaport Catherine Cangany details this seldom discussed chapter of Detroit's history She argues that by the time of the American Revolution Detroit functioned much like a coastal town as a result of the prosperous fur trade serving as a critical link in a commercial chain that stretched all the way to Russia and China thus opening Detroit's shores for eastern merchants and other transplants This influx of newcomers brought its own transatlantic networks and fed residents' desires for popular culture and manufactured merchandise Detroit began to be both a frontier town and seaport city a mixed identity Cangany argues that hindered it from becoming a thoroughly American metropolis
Strangers at Our Gates Valerie Knowles, 2007-03-30
Immigrants and immigration have always been central to Canadians' perception of themselves as a country and as a society In this crisply written history Valerie Knowles describes the different kinds of immigrants who have settled in Canada and the immigration policies that have helped to define the character of Canadian immigrants over the centuries Key policymakers and moulders of public opinion figure prominently in this colourful story as does the role played by racism This new and revised edition contains additional material on immigration to Newfoundland and Nova Scotia sections on the evacuee children of the Second World War and Canadian War Brides and material relating to significant developments in the immigration and refugee field since 1996 Special attention is paid to the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act of 2001
