Colonial Madness Mental Health In The Barbadian Social Order:

Colonial Madness Lawrence E. Fisher, 1985 The Palgrave Handbook of the History of Human Sciences David McCallum, 2022-08-27 The Palgrave Handbook of the History of Human Sciences offers a uniquely comprehensive and global overview of the evolution of ideas concepts and policies within the human sciences Drawn from histories of the social and psychological sciences anthropology the history and philosophy of science and the history of ideas this collection analyses the health and welfare of populations evidence of the changing nature of our local communities cities societies or global movements and studies the way our humanness or human nature undergoes shifts because of broader technological shifts or patterns of living This Handbook serves as an authoritative reference to a vast source of representative scholarly work in interdisciplinary fields a means of understanding patterns of social change and the conduct of institutions as well as the histories of these ways of knowing probe the contexts circumstances and conditions which underpin continuity and change in the way we count analyse and understand ourselves in our different social worlds It reflects a critical scholarly interest in both traditional and emerging concerns on the relations between the biological and social sciences and between these and changes and continuities in societies and conducts as 21st century research moves into new intellectual and geographic territories more diverse fields and global problematics Chattel House Blues Hilary Beckles, 2004 The remaking of colonial Barbados as a postmodern nation state has its political roots buried deep within the past In Chattel House Blues Hilary Beckles sets out to rewrite modern Barbadian history by centring the evolution of the nation in centuries of grassroots struggle Democracy in Barbados he argues as a social political and cultural reality has its origins principally within working class demands for freedom justice and equality and not as a bestowal upon the masses by elites at moments of imperial and colonial enlightenment In the second volume of his trilogy Great House Rules Landless Emancipation and Workers Protest in Barbados 1838 1938 Prof Beckles convincingly shows that for the first one hundred years after emancipation an unbroken chain of resistance protest and agitation for democratic governance resulted in a decisive breach in the walls of the structures of white supremacy culminating in the Clement Payne Movement and the Riots of 1937 Black workers and their middle class allies secured Universal Adult Suffrage in 1950 and finally politically independence in 1966 ending the Great House Rule that had begun three hundred years earlier This process he further argues reached maturity in 1994 when Owen Arthur a young man from the chattel house in the plantation tenantry became prime minister Independence and nationhood though critical markers in the journey towards social justice and equity did not mean an end to the struggle The politically enfranchised workers have since risen to an appreciation of their economic rights and the issue of popular economic democracy is now seen as the next step I civil rights development that Barbadians must confront Chattel House Blues connects current political thinking with the historical process In producing this work of historical literature that emphasises a people centred culture of change and transformation Prof Beckles thesis is challenging if not controversial and is bound to result in widespread debate among Barbadians at home and in the diaspora Psychiatry and Empire S. Mahone, M. Vaughan, 2007-11-28 Psychiatry and Empire brings together scholars in the History of Medicine and Colonialism to explore questions of race gender and power relations in former colonial states across Africa Asia the Caribbean and the Pacific The volume advances our understanding of the rise of modern psychiatry as it collided with the psychology of colonial rule

The Parish Behind God's Back Sharon Bohn Gmelch, George Gmelch, 2012-04-06 For this latest edition the authors returned to Barbados to update the changing face of life in St Lucy the parish behind Gods back the islands most rural district After discussing Barbados colonial history as a plantation society based on slavery and the economys recent conversion from sugar to tourism they turn to everyday life in St Lucy patterns of work gender relations religion and the meaning of community The book concludes by examining the global forces and media television tourism travel and the Internet that connect villagers to the outside and most directly affect their lives Written with students in mind this highly readable illustrated and thought provoking account is ideal for courses in cultural anthropology and Caribbean studies An appendix describes the changes North American students experienced as a result of participating in the anthropology field schools the authors ran in Barbados over a twenty year period Postcolonial Slavery Charlotte Baker, Jennifer Jahn, 2009-10-02 This collection of eight essays by research students and academics from the UK France Germany and the USA examining different forms and manifestations of postcolonial slavery underlines the significance of the year 2007 marking the bicentennial anniversary of the passage of the British law banning the slave trade Slavery and its legacies galvanized a diachronic series of ethnic crossings and transformations that engendered new and complex patterns of crosscultural contact And the importance of communities of runaway slaves can scarcely be overstated as a symbol of an insistent black resistance and self affirmation But in bringing the material realities of slavery to the forefront of the imagination this volume also highlights the marginalization of British and French colonial practices in institutionalized frameworks of historical knowledge Actively contesting the related traumas of transplantation the middle passage and the fracturing of the collective memory and drawing actively on a wide range of approaches and perspectives this collection seeks to reinscribe a material historical consciousness of slavery and its legacies through a strategic interaction between history subjectivity and representation H Adlai Murdoch University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign Race, Science and Medicine, 1700-1960 Waltraud Ernst, Bernard Harris, 2002-01-04 Considering cases from Europe to India this collection brings together current critical research into the role played by racial issues in the production of medical knowledge Confronting such controversial themes as colonialism and medicine the origins of racial thinking and health and migration the distinguished contributors examine the role played by medicine in the construction of racial categories Postcolonial Whiteness Alfred J. Lopez, 2005-02-10 Explores the undertheorized convergence of postcoloniality and whiteness Mental and Social Disorder in Sub-Saharan Africa Leland Bell, 1991-11-21 This book discusses mental and social disorder in the west African country of
