
A serene landscape photograph featuring a sunset or sunrise over a body of water. The sky is a warm, golden-orange color, transitioning into a darker blue-grey over the water. In the foreground, dark, silhouetted mountains or hills are visible, their peaks and ridges catching some of the low light. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

Color is life, for a world without color seems dead. As a flame produces light, light produces color. As intonation lends color to the spoken word, color lends spiritually realized sound to a form.

Color Seems:

Primitive Colors Joshua Gert, 2017-06-23 Joshua Gert presents an original account of color properties and of our perception of them. He employs a general philosophical strategy: neo pragmatism, which challenges an assumption made by virtually all other theories of color. Neo pragmatism rejects the standard representationalist strategy for solving placement problems in philosophy, which relies on the existence of a substantive notion of reference and truth. Instead, it makes use of deflationary accounts of such semantic notions. Applied to the domain of color, the result is a view according to which colors are primitive properties of objects, irreducible to physical or dispositional properties. In this way, they are more like numbers and less like natural kinds such as water or gold. Objective colors are also contrary to current dogma: insufficiently determinate in their nature to allow them to be associated with precise points in standard color spaces. A given color can present different veridical appearances in different viewing circumstances and to different normal viewers. It is these appearances which are to be understood in an adverbial way that can be located in standard color spaces. In explaining the distinction between objective color and color appearance, a central analogy to which Gert appeals is that between the perceptible three-dimensional shape of an object and the various ways in which that shape appears from various perspectives. Primitive Colors also offers an account of color constancy, a moderated version of representationalism about visual experience, and a criticism of the thesis of the transparency of experience.

House Colors Susan Hershman, 2009-09 House Colors is the most comprehensive resource ever compiled on choosing exterior house colors. Sorted by architectural style, this format will allow the reader to pinpoint the colors that will best suit their style of home. It is the ultimate resource for those looking to achieve exceptional color combinations, from subtle to bold, that are so difficult to achieve without professional design assistance.

Color Trade Journal, 1922 The Mailbag, 1924 The Atlas of Reality Robert C. Koons, Timothy Pickavance, 2017-02-09 The Atlas of REALITY: The Atlas of Reality: A Comprehensive Guide to Metaphysics presents an extensive examination of the key concepts, principles, and arguments of metaphysics, traditionally the very core of philosophical thought. Representing the first exhaustive survey of metaphysics available, the book draws from historic sources while presenting the latest cutting-edge research in the field. Seminal works of philosophers such as David Lewis, Alvin Plantinga, Kit Fine, Peter van Inwagen, John Hawthorne, and many others are covered in depth without neglecting the critical contributions of historical figures like René Descartes, Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz, Bertrand Russell, and more. Written in an accessible manner without sacrificing rigor, readers at all levels will gain illuminating insights into metaphysical topics ranging from the problem of universals, individuation and composition, and relations and qualities to time, space, causation, existence, modality, and idealism. The authors also articulate the emergence of several coherent metaphysical theses, including neo-Aristotelian, neo-Humean, and more recent alternatives put forth by W. V. O. Quine and David M. Armstrong. Competing views are clearly and fairly represented, and key axioms and methodological assumptions are flagged and cross-referenced.
