Bedau, Carol E. Cleland, 2010-09-30 Bringing together the latest scientific advances and some of the most enduring subtle philosophical puzzles and problems this book collects original historical and contemporary sources to explore the wide range of issues surrounding the nature of life. Selections ranging from Aristotle and Descartes to Sagan and Dawkins are organised around four broad themes covering classical discussions of life, the origins and extent of natural life, contemporary artificial life, creations and the definition and meaning of life in its most general form. Accordingly, the notion of natural law has a clear metaphysical dimension since it involves the recognition that human beings do not conceive themselves as sheer products of society and history And yet if natural law is to be considered the fundamental law of practical reason it must show also some intrinsic relationship to history and positive law The essays in this book examine this tension between the metaphysical and the practical and how the philosophical elaboration of natural law presents this notion as a limiting concept between metaphysics and ethics between the mutable and the immutable between is and ought and in connection with the latter even the tension between politics and eschatology as a double horizon of ethics This book contributed to by scholars from Europe and America is a major contribution to the renewed interest in natural law It provides the reader with a comprehensive overview of natural law both from a historical and a systematic point of view It ranges from the mediaeval synthesis of Aquinas through the early modern elaborations of natural law up to current discussions on the very possibility and practical relevance of natural law theory for the contemporary mind National Library of Medicine
