Readings in Contemporary Physical Distribution James C. Johnson, 1976 Total Materials Management Eugene L. Magad, 2013-03-09 Materials management has become an important activity in both manufacturing and service organizations Rapid changes in the industrial environment such as the introduction of automation and Just In Time and demands for increased productivity and quality have increased the need for all personnel to be concerned with total control of materials Clearly this trend will continue and materials management will play an increasingly vital role in organizational success especially for operations that are becoming automated Materials management will be more critical in many service organizations where the materials group has received little attention in the past This book covers the basic materials management function and provides valuable insights into various other major functions related to it We believe that each of these manufacturing marketing finance quality assurance and engineering is vitally involved in materials management and any coverage of the subject that excludes these functions offers too narrow a perspective With increasing demand for materials managers human resource requirements will be satisfied by individuals trained within the discipline and by personnel who have worked in other fields The dimensions of materials management have grown so rapidly that many practicing managers are not aware that they are fulfilling material management functions It is important that all individuals have the basic knowledge required to perform their roles in these organizations Management of Physical Distribution and Transportation Charles A. Taff, 1984 Encyclopedia of Production and Manufacturing Management Paul M. Swamidass, 2006-09-21 The Encyclopedia of Production and Manufacturing Management is an encyclopedia that has been developed to serve this field as the fundamental reference work Over the past twenty years the field of production and operations management has grown more rapidly than ever and consequently its boundaries have been stretched in all directions For example in the last two decades production and manufacturing management absorbed in rapid succession several new production management concepts manufacturing strategy focused factory just in time manufacturing concurrent engineering total quality management supply chain management flexible manufacturing systems lean production and mass customization to name a few This explosive growth makes the need for this volume abundantly clear The manufacturing industry thinks and acts more broadly than it did several decades ago The most notable change has been the need for manufacturing managers to think in technological strategic and competitive terms This is a very favorable development and it leads to manufacturing success The entries in this encyclopedia include the most recent technical and strategic innovations in production and manufacturing management The encyclopedia consists of articles of varying lengths The longer articles on important concepts and practices range from five to fifteen pages There are about 100 such articles written by nearly 100 authors from around the world In addition there are over 1000 shorter entries on concepts practices and principles The range of topics and depth of coverage is intended to suit both student and professional audiences The shorter entries provide digests of unfamiliar and complicated subjects Difficult subjects are made intelligible to the reader without oversimplification The strategic and technological perspectives on various topics give this Encyclopedia its distinctiveness and uniqueness The world of manufacturing today is increasingly competitive It is apparent that manufacturers must respond to these competitive pressures with technical and strategic innovation This encyclopedia has been developed to help researchers students and those in the manufacturing industry to understand and implement these ongoing changes in the field

Logistics Strategy Roy D. Shapiro, James L. Heskett, 1985 Readings in Physical Distribution Management Donald J. Bowersox, Bernard J. La Londe, Edward W. Smykay, 1969 Harvard Business School Core Collection 1995 Baker Library, 1995 Distribution David F. Ross, 2012-12-06 It has been said that every generation of historians seeks to rewrite what a previous generation had established as the standard interpretations of the motives and circumstances shaping the fabric of historical events It is not that the facts of history have changed No one will dispute that the battle of Waterloo occurred on June 11 1815 or that the allied invasion of Europe began on June 6 1944 What each new age of historians are attempting to do is to reinterpret the motives of men and the force of circumstance impacting the direction of past events based on the factual social intellectual and cultural milieu of their own generation By examining the facts of history from a new perspective today's historians hope to reveal some new truth that will not only illuminate the course of history but also validate contemporary values and societal ideals Although it is true that tackling the task of developing a new text on logistics and distribution channel management focuses less on schools of philosophical and social analysis and more on the calculus of managing sales campaigns inventory replenishment and income statements the goal of the management scientist like the historian is to merge the facts and figures of the discipline with today's organizational cultural and economic realities Hopefully the result will be a new synthesis where a whole new perspective will break forth exposing new directions and opportunities Harvard Business School Core Collection Baker Library, 1993 Subject Catalog Library of Congress, Handbook of Modern Marketing Victor P. Buell, 1986 The broad scope and practical input from more than 100 recognized marketing authorities nationwide have made the Handbook of Modern Marketing an invaluable reference for all levels of marketing managers This revised and updated edition covers recent developments in all areas of marketing including globalization of major industries innovations in the marketing of services and technology's effect on marketing strategies Explores consumer industrial services and government markets
