

is not whether the applicant has established a prima facie case or even whether there is a serious issue to be tried, although that comes close to it. The issue is whether, on the materials immediately available to the court, which of course can include material furnished by the proposed defendant, the applicant's complaint appears to be such that it deserves the full investigation which will be possible if the intended applicant is allowed to proceed (p. 102).

Conclusions

What, then, are the conclusions?

- (1) S.139 gives certain protection in relation to any act performed in relation to a detained patient, so that the patient will have to obtain the leave of the court to proceed against an individual. No leave is required to pursue an action against a Health Authority or the Secretary of State.
- (2) S.139 gives certain protection in relation to any act performed in relation to an informal patient under the Act.
- (3) 95% of all patients are informal and they probably do not therefore have to seek the leave of the Court to proceed unless they are complaining about an action taken under the Act or statutory regulations.
- (4) Patients who are being treated for physical disorders do not have to seek the leave of the Court to institute legal proceedings.

- (5) No leave is required to bring an action for an order of sequestration.
- (6) In seeking leave to proceed the applicant does not have to show substantial ground or even a prima facie case of bad faith or want of reasonable care.
- (7) Want of reasonable care and bad faith are comparable to the failure to follow the approved standard of care used in the civil courts to determine the existence of negligence.
- (8) Any defendant to a civil action can seek an Order under RSC 18 r19 to have the case struck out.
- (9) A defendant in a criminal case can have his case rejected by the Examining Justices when committal proceedings are held.

My conclusion is that in view of the protection that the defendant already enjoys, the weakening of S.143(2) and the small number of patients covered by S.139(2), there is no longer any justification for the applicant to face this hurdle and S.139(2) could be repealed without undue hardship to the staff.

Leave is not required under S.139 to bring an action against the Health Authority and possibly the time has now come when it should no longer be required to bring an action against an individual.

A Tribute to Sir Martin Roth

On 19 June, 1987 the North-East Division of the College combined with the Newcastle University Department of Psychiatry to pay a conference tribute to Professor Sir Martin Roth as he approaches his 70th birthday. The Teaching Centre of the Freeman Hospital, Newcastle was an appropriate setting for such an event for Sir Martin spent 21 years as Professor of Psychiatry in Newcastle and the large attendance indicated the affection he still evokes there 10 years after his departure to Cambridge. Several generations of former colleagues spanning the past 30 years were present and the eminent positions they had reached in psychiatry, both at home and overseas, demonstrated what an intellectual power-house this small provincial department became under Sir Martin's direction.

The scientific programme encompassed many of Sir Martin's particular interests, including The Classification of Anxiety Disorders (Professor Sydney Brandon), Depression in Childhood (Professor Iain Kolvin), Criminal Behaviour in the Elderly (Professor Steve Hucker), The Normal Aged (Dr Klaus Bergmann) and Clinico-Pathological Correlates of Dementia (Dr Garry Blessed). In a witty and erudite contribution Professor David Shaw, Dean of the Newcastle Medical School, himself a Professor of Neurology, reminded us that Sir Martin had begun his career in neurology and quoted with approval from his early neurological publications in which can be discerned the nucleus of many of his subsequent preoccupations.

As a prelude to Sir Martin's own presentation, three brief vignettes on pre-Newcastle Days (Professor David Kay), Newcastle Experiences (Dr Kurt Schapira) and The Cambridge Contribution (Dr Chris Mountjoy) reviewed Sir Martin's career in a not too-solemn fashion. Sir Martin then enthralled the audience with a typical Rothian polemic, ostensibly about DSM-III but covering almost the whole of psychiatry, including the latest molecular findings in Alzheimer's disease.

The conference ended with a tremendous ovation as Dr Sasi Mahapatra, Chairman of the North-East Division, presented a memento from members of the Division to Sir Martin. There was, however, more to come as later that evening over 100 people attended a banquet in honour of Sir Martin and Lady Roth at which the fund of humorous anecdotes so deftly delivered by Kurt Schapira in his toast was only exceeded by Sir Martin's own inimitable performance. It was the potent brew of nostalgia, humour, warmth and intellectual brilliance, rather than the excellent wine, that sent us homeward with a feeling of intoxication.

Sir Martin Roth is a phenomenon of British psychiatry and after a day devoted to his phenomenology it is pleasing to report that he shows no sign of flagging and is likely to be still going strong on his 80th birthday.

Contemporary Themes In Psychiatry A Tribute To Sir Martin Roth:

Contemporary Themes in Psychiatry Alan Kerr, Kenneth Davison, 1989 Principles and Practice of Geriatric Psychiatry Mohammed T. Abou-Saleh, Cornelius L. E. Katona, Anand Kumar, 2011-01-04

The renowned Principles and Practice of Geriatric Psychiatry now in its third edition addresses the social and biological concepts of geriatric mental health from an international perspective. Featuring contributions by distinguished authors from around the world, the book offers a distinctive angle on issues in this continually developing discipline. Principles and Practice of Geriatric Psychiatry provides a comprehensive review of geriatric psychiatry spanning both psychiatric and non-psychiatric disorders, scientific advances in service development, specific clinical dilemmas. New chapters on genetics of aging, somatoform disorders, epidemiology of substance abuse, somatoform disorders, care of the dying patient. Continuing the practice of earlier editions, the major sections of the book address aging, diagnosis and assessment, and clinical conditions incorporating an engaging discussion on substance abuse and schizophrenic disorders. Shorter sections include the presentation of mental illness in elderly people from different cultures, one of the most popular sections in previous editions. Learning and behavioural studies, as well as models of geriatric psychiatry practice, are covered extensively. This book provides a detailed overview of the entire range of mental illness in old age, presented within an accessible format. Principles and Practice of Geriatric Psychiatry is an essential read for psychiatrists, geriatricians, neurologists, and psychologists. It is of particular use for instructors of general psychiatry programs and their residents.

Contemporary Themes in Psychiatry Kenneth Davison, Alan Kerr, 1989 Oxford Textbook of Old Age Psychiatry Tom Denning, Alan Thomas, 2013-09-26

Broad in scope and with global appeal, The Oxford Textbook of Old Age Psychiatry second edition is the definitive resource on old age psychiatry. It comprehensively provides the latest knowledge on the science and practice of treating later life mental disorders, focusing on the health and social issues that arise around ageing, dementia, co-morbidity, dependency, and the end of life in progressively ageing societies across the world. Published in previous incarnations as the much-loved Psychiatry in the Elderly, this core resource for all old age psychiatrists, trainees, and other clinical professionals treating older people's mental health has been fully revised, updated, and significantly expanded. Twelve months' inclusive access to the online version, including the full text which can be browsed by the contents list, index, or searched links from references to external sources via PubMed, ISI, and CrossRef, and the ability to download all figures and illustrations into PowerPoint, ensures that it remains the leading text on old age psychiatry in the field. Maintaining the classic combination of comprehensive coverage, clear writing style, and the provision of authoritative and up-to-date information from earlier editions, this highly respected volume covers the underpinning basic science, both the neurobiological and social varieties, clinical practice, and specific disorders, as well as providing information on psychiatric services for older people and medico-legal and ethical issues that often present hard challenges for those treating older patients. Taking a global approach by highlighting both the common burdens and the differences in management from country to country and with a much expanded cast of contributors providing a truly international perspective The Oxford Textbook of Old Age Psychiatry second edition includes information on all the latest improvements and changes in the field New chapters are included to reflect the development of old age care covering palliative care the ethics of caring and living and dying with dementia Existing chapters have also been revised and updated throughout and additional information is included on brain stimulation therapies memory clinics and services and capacity which now includes all mental capacity and decision making Providing extensive coverage and written by experts the field the second edition of the Oxford Textbook of Old Age Psychiatry is an essential resource no old age psychiatrist trainee or anyone working in the field of mental health care for older people should be without a copy on their bookshelf Evaluating Mental Health Services for Older
