Continuities Of Hopi Culture Change:

Continuities of Hopi Culture Change Richard O. Clemmer, 1978-01-01 Social Change and Cultural Continuity
Among Native Nations Duane Champagne, 2007 This book defines the broad parameters of social change for Native American nations in the twenty first century as well as their prospects for cultural continuity Many of the themes Champagne tackles are of general interest in the study of social change including governmental economic religious and environmental perspectives This book is an excellent resource for use in anthropology sociology ethnic studies or Native American studies classes The Hopi Indians of Old Oraibi: Change and Continuity Mischa Titiev, 1972 Around the Sacred Fire J. Treat, 2016-04-30 Around the Sacred Fire is a compelling cultural history of intertribal activism centered on the Indian Ecumenical Conference an influential movement among native people in Canada and the U S during the Red Power era Founded in 1969 the Conference began as an attempt at organizing grassroots spiritual leaders who were concerned about the conflict between tribal and Christian traditions throughout Indian country By the mid seventies thousands of people were gathering each summer in the foothills of the Rockies where they participated in weeklong encampments promoting spiritual revitalization and religious self determination Most historical overviews of native affairs in the sixties and seventies emphasize the prominence of the American Indian Movement and the impact of highly publicized confrontations such as the Northwest Coast fish ins the Alcatraz occupation and events at Wounded Knee The Indian Ecumenical Conference played a central role in stimulating cultural revival among native people partly because Conference leaders strategized for social change in ways that differed from the militant groups Drawing on archival records published accounts oral histories and field research James Treat has written the first comprehensive study of this important but overlooked effort at postcolonial interreligious dialogue Mogollon Cultural Continuity and Change Chicago Natural History Museum, Paul Sidney Martin, 1952 Religion and Hopi Life in the Twentieth Century John D. Loftin, 1991 Animals into Art Howard Morphy, 2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 which addressed world archaeology in its widest sense investigating how people lived in the past and how and why changes took place to result in the forms of society and culture which exist now The series brought together archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world academics from contingent disciplines and also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds who could lend their own expertise to the discussions This book is an exploration of the way in which the animal world features in the works of art of a variety of cultures of different times and places Contributors have adopted a variety of perspectives for looking at the complex ways in which past and present humans have interrelated with beings they classify as animals Some of the approaches are predominantly economic and ecological some are symbolic and others philosophical or theological All these different views are included in the interpretation of the artworks of the past revealing some of the foci and inspirations of cultural attitudes to animals Originally published 1989 American Indian

Culture and Research Journal ,1998 Hopis, Tewa, and the American Road Willard Walker, Lydia L. Wyckoff, 1986
The Melville Collection of Indian art cataloged in this handsome book was largely assembled in 1927 on the Hopis Mesas The collection which belongs to Wesleyan University the original publisher of this book also includes Plains Pima Pueblo and Navajo items The Hopi material comprises traditional pieces intended for local use innovative items made for sale to tourists and ceramics that illustrate the complex transition in Hopi pottery from folk craft to Indian art In addition to cataloging the collection the book includes essays on the Tewa and the Hopis on the Sityatki Revival potters and their wares on the historical and political context of Indian affairs in the 1920s on the business of buying and selling Indian art and on the individuals who made this particular collection The Protohistoric Period in the North American Southwest, AD 1450-1700 David R. Wilcox, 1981 Configurations of Cultural Continuity Brian M. Du Toit, 1976 This book deals with sociocultural groupings that aim to pursue cultural continuity and relative stability of the group The study centers around three main topics life cycle societies cultural adjustment movements and secret societies which are present in various degrees of clarity in both the former two categories Denver journal of international law and policy ,1986 American Indian Quarterly ,1996 Present is Past Marie Mauzé, 1997-12-04 This book belongs to a long tradition of thought on Native identity However in a more or less explicit manner it intends to break away from other studies in the field Instead of viewing identity in reference to a phantasmagorical past it aims at setting up the framework within which identity can express and project itself into the future The collection of essays shows that this future can evolve equally between the continuity of Natives identity and their ability to innovate and to invent In that respect tradition appears as a technique of adjustment and adaptation to new conditions The book explores the notion of tradition by both anthropologists and native peoples The first part consists of three theoretical texts that discuss a number of general issues the mechanisms of retroactive legitimation of tradition the cognitive aspects of cultural transmission and the relationships between tradition and history The second part is composed of case studies dealing for the most part with Native North Americans One essay adds a comparative dimension being dedicated to the Maoris of New Zealand Several contributions deal with aspects of expressive culture native art and ceremonialism In all these cases identities that are being constructed have a twofold nature one that is specific to the cultural groups concerned the other that distinguishes these groups from the encompassing Euro American world America, History and Life ,1994 The Indian Historian ,1978 Children of Sacred Ground Catherine Feher-Elston, 1988 The struggle between the Navajo and Hopi tribes with the federal government as referee is more than a fight for land it is more critically a fight for cultural survival The dispute is ripping apart the lives economic spiritual and physical of the individuals who live on the land in question It is a quarrel with no obvious or simple solution an argument that deals both in abstract principles and real human suffering What are the implications of this government sponsored resettlement A precedent has been set for allocating public lands to accommodate the growth of traditional indigenous populations This book details the roots of the conflict its complex elements and its players providing a perspective that reflects the heart of this problem The Arizona Quarterly ,1979 National Union Catalog, 1980 ,1981 National Union Catalog ,1980 Includes entries for maps and atlases
