Contract And Property In Early Modern China:

Contract and Property in Early Modern China Madeleine Zelin, 2004-02-18 Providing a new perspective on economic and legal institutions particularly on contract and property in Qing and Republican history this volume provides case studies to explicate how these institutions worked while situating them firmly in their broader social context The Information Nexus Steven G. Marks, 2016-08-04 A provocative new book calling into question everything we thought we knew about capitalism and what makes it unique Canadian Journal of Law and Society ,2006 Realms of Freedom in Modern China William C. Kirby, 2004 Explores issues surrounding questions of human rights and freedom in China Freedom with or without the protection of law was a feature of China before the 20th century The turn of the century shows a reassertion of realms of personal and communal autonomy that show even in an era of strong states the prospect of institutionalized freedoms Missions to China's Heartland Hazel Todd, 2009 NIRA's World Directory of Think Tanks ,2005 The Eighteenth-century Current Bibliography ,2000 中国历史, 2011 China's New Regulatory State Roselyn Ying-Yueh Hsueh, 2008 Program of the ... Annual Meeting American Historical Association, American Historical Association. Meeting, 2005 Things Modern Frank Dikötter, 2007 Maps many changes in the material landscape of China from the mid nineteenth century to the advent of communism in 1949 This book analyses how a very pragmatic attitude towards material goods prevailed as most consumers bought the new and discarded the old without misgivings The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2009 China During the Great Depression Tomoko Shiroyama, 2008 The Great Depression was a global phenomenon every economy linked to international financial and commodity markets suffered The aim of this book is not merely to show that China could not escape the consequences of drastic declines in financial flows and trade but also to offer a new perspective for understanding modern Chinese history The Great Depression was a watershed in modern China China was the only country on the silver standard in an international monetary system dominated by the gold standard Fluctuations in international silver prices undermined China's monetary system and destabilized its economy In response to severe deflation the state shifted its position toward the market from laissez faire to committed intervention Establishing a new monetary system with a different foreign exchange standard required deliberate government management ultimately the process of economic recovery and monetary change politicized the entire Chinese economy By analyzing the impact of the slump and the process of recovery this book examines the transformation of state market relations in light of the linkages between the Chinese and the world economy 中国近代史, Ramon Hawley Myers, 2013 Ben shu tong guo dui jin dai zhong guo tiao yue gang chu xian Fa zhan de yan jiu Fen xi qi zai jing ji fa zhan yu zhi du xing cheng zhong de zuo yong Shu zhong dui zai zhong guo jin dai jing ji fa zhan ju you ju da zuo yong de shang hai zuo le an li fen xi Ben shu yi zai chan shu zhi du de fa zhan bian qian dui jing ji yi ji she hui de ying xiang You hen gao de xue shu jia zhi You zhu yu guo nei xue jie dui tiao yue gang zhei yi jin dai xian dai you geng shen qie de ren shi Exotic

Commodities Frank Dikötter, 2006 Exotic Commodities is the first book to chart the consumption and spread of foreign goods in China from the mid nineteenth century to the advent of communism in 1949 Richly illustrated and revealing this volume recounts how exotic commodities were acquired and adapted in a country commonly believed to have remained hostile toward alien things during the industrial era China was not immune to global trends that prized the modern goods of civilized nations Foreign imports were enthusiastically embraced by both the upper and lower classes and rapidly woven into the fabric of everyday life often in inventive ways Scarves skirts blouses and corsets were combined with traditional garments to create strikingly original fashions Industrially produced rice sugar wheat and canned food revolutionized local cuisine and mass produced mirrors were hung on doorframes to ward off malignant spirits Frank Dikötter argues that ordinary people were the least inhibited in acquiring these products and therefore the most instrumental in changing the material culture of China Landscape paintings door leaves and calligraphy scrolls were happily mixed with kitschy oil paintings and modern advertisements Old and new interacted in ways that might have seemed incongruous to outsiders but were perfectly harmonious to local people This pragmatic attitude would eventually lead to China's own mass production and export of cheap modern goods which today can be found all over the world The nature of this history raises the question which Dikötter pursues in his conclusion If the key to surviving in a fast changing world is the ability to innovate could China be more in tune with modernity than Europe

Sibao today is a cluster of impoverished villages in the mountains of western Fujian Yet from the late seventeenth through the early twentieth century it was home to a flourishing publishing industry Through itinerant booksellers and branch bookshops managed by Sibao natives this industry supplied much of south China with cheap educational texts household guides medical handbooks and fortune telling manuals It is precisely the ordinariness of Sibao imprints that make them valuable for the study of commercial publishing the text production process and the geographical and social expansion of book culture in Chinese society In a study with important implications for cultural and economic history Cynthia Brokaw describes rural lower level publishing and bookselling operations at the end of the imperial period Commerce in Culture traces how the poverty and isolation of Sibao necessitated a bare bones approach to publishing and bookselling and how the Hakka identity of the Sibao publishers shaped the configuration of their distribution networks and even the nature of their publications Sibao's industry reveals two major trends in print culture the geographical extension of commercial woodblock publishing to hinterlands previously untouched by commercial book culture and the related social penetration of texts to lower status levels of the population
