Contributions Of Women Literature:

The Contributions which Women Have Made to Medical Literature Metta M. Loomis, 1914 Cooperation among community leaders: The role of women's leadership and exposure to conflict Nigus, Halefom Yigzaw, Abay, Kibrom A., 2024-10-02 In rural settings community leaders play important roles in mobilizing resources and delivering public goods and services However little is known about their attributes and incentives in delivering these public goods and services Exploiting survey lab in the field experiment and geo referenced data we study the role of leaders especially women's leadership and their exposure to conflict in explaining differences in cooperation among community leaders in Ethiopia We measure cooperation through a public good experiment and examine the implications of community leaders characteristics We then merge these lab in the field experimental data with geo referenced data on conflict exposure to examine the implication of different types of conflict on community leaders cooperation behavior We find that female leaders contribute more to public goods than their male counterparts For example compared to those assuming the highest official administrative responsibility in the village women leaders contribute about 11 percent more to the public good We also document nuanced findings that reconcile existing mixed evidence on the implication of exposure to conflict on cooperation while conflict events that affect the whole community such as political violence including battles are associated with higher cooperation other types of conflict e.g demonstrations and riots are associated with lower levels of cooperation Finally we identify additional predictors of cooperation among community leaders including beliefs about other leaders cooperative behavior These findings shed light on potential avenues for facilitating and fostering cooperation among community leaders
