Control of Breathing and Its Modeling Perspective Y. Honda, K. Konno, Y. Miyamoto, J.G. Widdicombe, 2013-06-29 The fifth Oxford Conference was held on September 17th 19th 1991 at the Fuji Institute of Training in Japan the first time that the meeting has taken place in the Asian area The facts that only a relatively few Japanese had attended previous Oxford Conferences and that Japan is far from other regions with possible participants made the organizers anticipate a small attendance at the meeting However contrary to our expectations 198 active members 72 foreign and 126 domestic participants submitted 146 papers from 15 countries This was far beyond our preliminary estimate and could have caused problems in providing accommodation for the participants and in programming their scientific presentations These difficulties however were successfully overcome by using nearby hotels by telecasting presentations into a second lecture room and by displaying a substantial number of poster presentations during the whole period of the meeting The meeting had two types of sessions regular and current topics The first paper in each session represented a short overview or introduction so as to make it easier for the audience to comprehend the problems at issue Because of the large number of papers submitted carefully selected speakers mostly well known scholars made excellent presentations that were followed by lively discussions In this way the conference laid a foundation on which to base its continued scientific success Frontiers in Modeling and Control of Breathing Chi-Sang Poon, Homayoun Kazemi, 2012-12-06 The field of neural control of breathing has advanced rapidly in the past two decades with the emergence of many new and promising research directions of increasing sophistication The complexity and diversity of the current methodologies signify its remarkable vivacity albeit at the price of much confusion Captured in this book are the broad and intricate nature of the field and its multifaceted frontiers including aspects of genetics cell and molecular biology comparative biology neurophysiology neurochemistry neuroanatomy imaging human physiology in health and disease and influence of environmental factors Major topics include chemosensitivity respiratory sensation respiratory neurons rhythmogenesis plasticity development chemoreflex and exercise respiratory instability and variability with behavioral and sleep states etc which are systematically laid out in the book for easy referencing Respiratory Control F.S. Grodins, A. Shivarova, G.D. Swanson, 2012-12-06 The fourth Oxford Conference entitled Control of Breathing A Modeling Perspective was held in September of 1988 at Grand Lake Colorado Grand Lake also called Spirit Lake was chosen for the fourth meeting so as to continue the meditative atmosphere of the previous meetings and to put the conference on a new higher plane 8 500 feet The weather as promised exhibited its random like rain showers The snow report became essential for traveling the 12 000 foot passes to and from Grand Lake Even the services such as telephone and electricity proved to be uncertain In all the overall atmosphere of Spirit Lake contributed to an uninhibited free style of presentation and interaction All of us who attend the Oxford Conferences share a common interest in exploring respiratory control and the regulation of breathing Modeling has become an adjunct to our exploration process For us models are tools that extend our ability to conceptualize just as instruments are tools that extend our ability to measure And so these meetings attract physicians physiologists mathematicians and engineers who are modelers and modelers who are engineers mathematicians physiologists and physicians Four of these physician modelers have now passed away They have been very important mentors for many of us J W Bellville was my Ph D dissertation advisor at Stanford who introduced me to the intrigue of respiratory control G F Filley was my colleague at the University of Colorado who enhanced my thinking about respiratory control E S National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 Control of Breathing and Dyspnea Tamotsu Takishima,Neil S. Semple,Lewis Adams,Brian J. Whipp,2012-12-06 The origins of what have come to be known as the Oxford Conferences on modelling and the control of breathing can be traced back to a discussion between Dan Cunningham and Richard Hercynski at a conference dinner at the Polish Academy of Sciences in 1971 Each felt that they had benefited from the different perspectives from which the topic of ventilatory control was approached predominantly physiological in the case of Dr Cunningham and predominantly mathematical in the case of Dr Hercynski Their judgement at that time was that a conference on the control of breathing which allowed investigators with these different but related scientific perspectives to present and discuss their work might prove fruitful We would judge that this has amply been borne out based upon the success of the series of conferences which resulted from that seminal dinner conversation The first conference entitled Modelling of a Biological Control System The Regulation of Breathing was held in Oxford UK in 1978 Subsequent conferences were Modelling and the Control of Breathing at Lake Arrowhead California in 1982 Concepts and Formulations in the Control of Breathing in Solignac France in 1985 Respiratory Control A Modeling Perspective at Grand Lakes Colorado in 1988 and Control of Breathing and Its Modelling Perspective at the Fuji Institute in Japan in 1991 The conferences subsequent to the one in Oxford have all resulted in well received published proceedings
