Camera Works Photography And The Twentieth Century Word:

Camera Works Michael North, 2005-01-20 Camera Works is about the impact of photography and film on modern art and literature. For many artists and writers these new media offered hope of new means of representation neither linguistic nor pictorial but hovering in a kind of utopian space between. At the same time the new media introduced a dramatic element of novelty into the age old evidence of the senses. For the avant garde the challenges of the new media were the modern in its most concentrated form but even for aesthetically unadventurous writers they constituted an element of modern experience that could hardly be ignored. Camera Works thus traces some of the more utopian projects of transatlantic avant garde including the Readie machine of Bob Brown which was to turn stories and poems into strips of linguistic film. The influence of photography and film on the avant garde is traced from the early days of Camera Work through the enthusiasm of Eugene Jolas and the contributors to his magazine transition to the crisis created by the introduction of sound in the late 1920s. Subsequent chapters describe the entirely new kind of sensory enjoyment brought into modern American fiction by the new media. What Fitzgerald calls spectroscopic gayety the enjoyable disorientation of the senses by machine perception turns out to be a powerful force in much American fiction. The revolutionary possibilities of this new spectatorship and its limitations are pursued through a number of examples including Dos Passos, James Weldon Johnson and Hemingway. Together these chapters offer a new and substantially different account of the relationship between modern American literature and the mediatized society of the early twentieth century. With a comprehensive introduction and detailed particular readings Camera Works substantiates a new understanding of the formal and historical bases of modernism. It argues that when modern literature and art respond to modernity on a formal level they are responding to the intervention of technology in the transmission of meaning an intervention that unsettles all the terms in the essential relationship of human consciousness to the world of phenomena.

Photopoetry 1845-2015 Michael Nott, 2018-05-31 From amateur experiments in scrapbooks and stereographs to contemporary photobook collaborations between leading practitioners poets and photographers have created an art form that continues to evolve and deserves critical exploration. Photopoetry 1845-2015 a Critical History represents the first account of this challenging and diverse body of work. Nott traces the development of photopoetic collaboration from its roots in 19th century illustrative practices to the present day. Focusing on work from the UK and US he examines how and why poets and photographers collaborate and explores the currents of exchange and engagement between poems and photographs on the page. The book not only considers canonical figures but brings to light forgotten practitioners whose work questioned and shaped the relationship between word and image. Photopoetry 1845-2015 a Critical History provides a new lens through which to explore poetry photography and the spaces between them.

Writing with Light Mick Gidley, 2010 Contributor Martin Padgett's essay 'Native Americans the Photobook and the Southwest' Ansel Adams and Mary Austin's Taos Pueblo was awarded the 2010 Arthur Miller Essay Prize. This book offers a collection of essays on the interface between literature and photography as exemplified in important North American texts     On Writing with Photography Karen Beckman, Liliane Weissberg, 2013-02-01 From James Agee to W G Sebald there has been an explosion of modern documentary narratives and fiction combining text and photography in complex and fascinating ways However these contemporary experiments are part of a tradition that stretches back to the early years of photography Writers have been integrating photographs into their work for as long as photographs have existed producing rich multilayered creations and photographers have always made images that incorporate respond to or function as writing On Writing with Photography explores what happens to texts and images when they are brought together From the mid nineteenth century to the present this collection addresses a wide range of genres and media including graphic novels children s books photo essays films diaries newspapers and art installations Examining the works of Herman Melville Don DeLillo Claude McKay Man Ray Dare Wright Guy Debord Zhang Ailing and Roland Barthes among others the essays trace the relationship between photographs and reality and describe the imaginary worlds constructed by both discussing how this production can turn into testimony of personal and collective history memory and trauma gender and sexuality and ethnicity Together these essays help explain how writers and photographers past and present have served as powerful creative resources for each other Contributors Stuart Burrows Brown U Roderick Coover Temple U Adrian Daub Stanford U Marcy J Dinius DePaul U Marianne Hirsch Columbia U Daniel H Magilow U of Tennessee Knoxville Janine Mileaf Tyrus Miller U of California Santa Cruz Leah Rosenberg U of Florida Xiaojue Wang U of Pennsylvania     The Poetics of Information Overload Paul Stephens, 2015-07-30 Information overload is a subject of vital ubiquitous concern in our time The Poetics of Information Overload reveals a fascinating genealogy of information saturation through the literary lens of American modernism Although technology has typically been viewed as hostile or foreign to poetry Paul Stephens outlines a countertradition within twentieth and twenty first century literature in which avant garde poets are centrally involved with technologies of communication data storage and bureaucratic control Beginning with Gertrude Stein and Bob Brown Stephens explores how writers have been preoccupied with the effects of new media since the advent of modernism He continues with the postwar writing of Charles Olson John Cage Bern Porter Hannah Weiner Bernadette Mayer Lyn Hejinian and Bruce Andrews and concludes with a discussion of conceptual writing produced in the past decade By reading these works in the context of information systems Stephens shows how the poetry of the past century has had as a primary focus the role of data in human life     Paraliterary Merve Emre, 2017-11-16 Literature departments are staffed by and tend to be focused on turning out good readers attentive to nuance aware of history interested in literary texts as self contained works But the vast majority of readers are to use the author s tongue in cheek term bad readers They read fiction and poetry to be moved distracted instructed improved engaged as citizens The author of this book argues that we should think of such readers not as non literary but as paraliterary thriving outside the institutions we take as central to the literary world She traces this phenomenon to the postwar period when literature played a key role in the rise of American power. At the same time as American universities were producing good readers by the hundreds, many more thousands of bad readers were learning elsewhere to be disciplined public communicators whether in diplomatic and ambassadorial missions, private and public cultural exchange programs, multinational corporations or global activist groups. As we grapple with literature's diminished role in the public sphere, she suggests a new way to think about literature, its audience and its potential, one that looks at the civic institutions that have long engaged readers ignored by the academy.

In and Out of Sight Alix Beeston, 2017-12-05. In a post-digital media landscape tracked endlessly by streams and feeds of images, it is clearer than ever that photography is an art poised between arresting singularity and ambiguous plurality. Drawing on work in visual culture studies that emphasizes the interplay between still and moving images, In and Out of Sight provides a provocative new account of the relationship between photography and modernist literature, a literature which has long been considered to trace in its formal experimentation the influence of modern visual technologies. Making pioneering claims about the importance of photography to the writing of Gertrude Stein, Jean Toomer, John Dos Passos and F. Scott Fitzgerald, Alix Beeston traverses the history of photography in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. From the composite experiments of Francis Galton to the epic portrait project of August Sander, from the surrealist self-fashioning of Claude Cahun to the reappropriation of lynching photographs by black activist groups, from the collectable postcards of Broadway stars to the glamour shots of Hollywood celebrities, these and other serialized photographic projects provide essential contexts for understanding the fragmentary composite forms of literary modernism. In a series of richly detailed literary analyses, Beeston argues that the gaps and intervals of the composite literary text model the visual syntax of photography as well as its silences, absences and equivocations. In them, the social and political order of modernity is negotiated and reshaped. Moving in and out of these textual openings, In and Out of Sight pursues the fleeting visible and invisible figure of the woman in series who recasts absence and silence as forms of presence and witness. This shadowy figure emerges as central to the conceptual space of modernist literature, a terrain not only gendered but radically constructed around the instability of female bodies and their desires.

Glamour in Six Dimensions Judith Christine Brown, 2009. Glamour is an alluring but elusive concept. We most readily associate it with fashion, industrial design and Hollywood of the Golden Age, and yet it also shaped the language and interests of high modernism. In Glamour in Six Dimensions, Judith Brown looks at the historical and aesthetic roots of glamour in the early decades of the twentieth century, arguing that glamour is the defining aesthetic of modernism. In the clean lines of modernism, she finds the ideal conditions for glamour: blankness, polish, impenetrability and the suspicion of emptiness behind it all. Brown focuses on several cultural products that she argues helped to shape glamour's meanings: the most significant perfume of the twentieth century, Chanel No. 5; the idea of the Jazz Age and its ubiquitous cigarette; the celebrity photograph; the staging of primitivism; and the invention of a shimmering plastic called cellophane. Alongside these artifacts she takes up the development refinement and analysis of glamour in Anglo American poetry film fiction and drama of the period Glamour in Six Dimensions thus asks its reader to see the proximity between the vernacular and elite cultures of modernism and particularly how glamour was animated by artists working at the crossroads of the mundane and the extraordinary Wallace Stevens F Scott Fitzgerald Virginia Woolf Josephine Baker D H Lawrence Gertrude Stein Nella Larsen and others Publications of the Modern Language Association of America ,2005 Mosaic ,2013-03 American Culture in the 1910s Mark Whalan,2010 Mark Whalan s richly multifaceted account of the 1910s offers vivid new perspectives on a decade generally overshadowed by its successor An excellent contribution to an excellent series Peter Nicholls Professor of English New York University Vanderbilt Journal of Entertainment and Technology Law ,2006 American Book Publishing Record ,2003 Journal of Narrative Theory ,2008 Cultural studies critical theory poststructuralism feminist theory new historicism American Studies Association American Studies Association.
