

11 Tips for Happy Campers

1 Pack a first-aid kit. The great outdoors can be freeing, but also contains rocks that can be slipped on, ivy that can cause rashes and blisters that can appear on feet no matter the thickness level of padded socks.

2 Sleeping setup – Along with a tent (available for rent if you don't own one), our frequent-camping colleague puts this at the top of his list and includes sleeping bags, sleeping pad and pillow(s).

3 Fire-starting supplies such as weatherproof matches and butane lighters are crucial for cooking up some tasty hot dogs or s'mores.

4 Though your campground may have receptacles, it's best to bring a box of trash bags to help dispose of or separate garbage as you camp.

5 Store extra batteries in a weatherproof container to keep those lanterns, head lamps and flashlights well lit.

6 Plenty of bathroom-related items including toilet paper, wet wipes, towels and toiletries.

7 Kitchen and cooking gear like utensils, plates, cups, pots, pans and what one of our co-workers said he never leaves home without – a camp stove.

8 Clothing is best done for comfort, climate and in layers. Oftentimes a warm day can turn into a cool night. Depending on time of year and destination, swimsuits, rain jackets and coats may be part of your packing. Extra socks are a good idea in case your feet get wet. As are quick-drying fabrics.

9 Critter deflection – Insect/wild animal repellant, fly swatter, bear canister, tent netting.

10 A multi-tool comes in handy for a variety of things – fixing, whittling, opening, mending, tooth-picking, digging – it's called "multi" for a reason.

11 Keep hydrated by bringing PLENTY of water to last your time spent out in nature.
