Campus Paul Venable Turner, 1984 From colonial times to the present the campus has been a distinctively American type of architectural planning This first comprehensive study of the American campus provides an exciting guide to an American building type and a new planning tradition

Campus Paul Venable Turner, 1984      Campus Paul Venable Turner, 1987

Winner Alice Davis Hitchcock Award Society of Architectural Historians Campus is an exciting guide to a distinctive type of architectural planning one that has reflected changing educational ideals from Colonial times to the present and as the embodiment of the ideal community has often expressed utopian social visions of America Organized chronologically Campus looks at new patterns of open planning at Harvard William and Mary and Yale the ambitious scale and dramatic setting of schools such as the University of Virginia the park like campuses of the land grant colleges that represented a democratic reaction against elitist traditions the Beaux Arts campuses of Columbia University and the universities of California and Minnesota the enclosed Gothic quadrangle at Universities like Princeton and at the more recent flexible and dynamic campus plans that are a response to new educational needs Among the architects and planners whose work is examined are Thomas Jefferson Benjamin Henry Latrobe Alexander Jackson Davis Frederick Law Olmsted Ralph Adams Cram Cope Stewardson Charles Z Klauder James Gamble Rogers Frank Lloyd Wright Eero Saarinen Skidmore Owings and Merrill William Turnbull and Charles Moore Paul Venable Turner is Professor of Architectural History at Stanford University An Architectural History Foundation Book

Campus; an American planning tradition P.V. Turner, 1987      University Planning and Architecture Jonathan Coulson, Paul Roberts, Isabelle Taylor, 2015-01-09 The environment of a university what we term a campus is a place with special resonance They have long been the setting for some of history's most exciting experiments in the design of the built environment Christopher Wren at Cambridge Le Corbusier at Harvard and Norman Foster at the Free University Berlin the calibre of practitioners who have shaped the physical realm of academia is superlative Pioneering architecture and innovative planning make for vivid assertions of academic excellence while the physical estate of a university can shape the learning experiences and lasting outlook of its community of students faculty and staff However the mounting list of pressures economic social pedagogical technological currently facing higher education institutions is rendering it increasingly challenging to perpetuate the rich legacy of campus design In this strained context it is more important than ever that effective use is made of these environments and that future development is guided in a manner that will answer to posterity This book is the definitive compendium of the prestigious sphere of campus design envisaged as a tool to help institutional leaders and designers to engage their campus's full potential by revealing the narratives of the world's most successful time honoured and memorable university estates It charts the worldwide evolution of university design from the Middle Ages to the present day uncovering the key episodes and themes that have conditioned the field and through a series of case studies profiles universally acclaimed campuses that through their planning architecture and landscaping have made original influential and striking contributions to the field By understanding this history present and future generations can distil important lessons for the future The second edition includes revised text many new images and new case studies of the Central University of Venezuela and Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad The Built Environment Wendy R. McClure, Tom J. Bartuska, 2011-09-09 This book takes a sweeping view of the ways we build things beginning at the scale of products and interiors to that of regions and global systems In doing so it answers questions on how we effect and are affected by our environment and explores how components of what we make from products buildings and cities are interrelated and why designers and planners must consider these connections The Birth of City Planning in the United States, 1840-1917 Jon A.
