Canadian Industrial Policy

Peter Morici

Canadian Industrial Policy:

Canadian Industrial Policy Peter Morici, Arthur J. R. Smith, Sperry Lea, 1982 Canadian Industrial Policy in Action D. G. McFetridge, Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada, 1985 This paper discusses the three central issues in the industrial policy debate as it relates to Canada These are a the problems posed by federal provincial and interprovincial industrial policy rivalry b the pros and cons of targetting or picking winners and c the role of proactive industrial and other policies in a positive adjustment program Canadian Industrial Development Science Council of Canada, 1984 What distinguishes this report on industrial policy from many that have gone before is that the Science Council is not advocating a new overall approach to industrial and technology policy It supports the general direction of the policies and programs that are already in place and focuses on what more should be done to enhance competitiveness and encourage change The recommendations include specific proposals designed to support entrepreneurship foster consensus and overcome certain weaknesses In total these recommendations will improve Canada's ability to adapt to the world of the 1980s and beyond and to seize the opportunities offered by the new technology and emerging economic conditions The Challenge of Diversity Michael Jenkin, 1983 The Transition to Reality John Shepherd, 1980-01-01 First published in 1980 The Transition to Reality is a look into Canada's industrial health or lack thereof Author John Shepherd criticizes the contemporary lack of a conscious industrial strategy in Canada asserting that the need for a coherent policy was masked by essentially ephemeral manufacturing growth in the 1960s He suggests policymakers focus on the mechanics of producing wealth rather than merely distributing it The Transition to Reality is a bracing and often contrary entry into the vibrant political economy debates of the early 1980s Trade, Industrial Policy, and International Competition Richard G. Harris, Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada, 1985 Research report on industrial policy and trade policy options for a small open market economy such as Canada examines economic theories relating by trade industrial investment and innovations and comparative advantage discusses policy implications of economic integration trade barriers and competition and technology transfer versus research and development argues for trade liberalization esp With the USA References statistical tables Canadian Industrial Policy in Comparative Perspective Matt Wilder, 2019 This thesis utilizes an institutional theory of economic organization and technological innovation called regime theory to explain the origins operation and outcomes of industrial policy in Canada The first part of the thesis elaborates the theory using formal logic spatial modelling techniques and game theory The second part evaluates cross national quantitative evidence in support of the theory and undertakes three detailed case studies involving shipbuilding agricultural biotechnology and green energy manufacturing Consistent with the varieties of capitalism literature it is demonstrated that liberal political economies are institutionally poised toward radical innovation but struggle with late innovation The introductory chapter defines industrial policy explains why the study of industrial policy is important details the argument of the thesis summarizes the methods used and lays out how the thesis is organized The second chapter engages with the literature on collective action and entrepreneurship to advance three components of regime theory a theory of regime origins a theory of regime operation and a theory of regime outcomes The third chapter introduces the structure of the economy and state of technological development as situational variables consideration of which yields four archetypical models of industrial policy and ten predictive hypotheses about the causes and consequences of industrial policy coordination Chapter 3 concludes with a summary of the propositions and implications of the theory The fourth chapter analyzes three cases studies aluminum shipbuilding industrial policy in British Columbia federal provincial biotechnology policy in support of the canola industry and Ontario s green energy industrial strategy and evaluates the ability of regime theory to explain industrial policy in Canada The fifth and final chapter summarizes the theory and evidence presented in the thesis and discusses the inferences that can be drawn from the findings

The Transition to Reality John J. Shepherd, 1980 Annotation First published in 1980 The Transition to Reality is a look into Canada s industrial health or lack thereof Author John Shepherd criticizes the contemporary lack of a conscious industrial strategy in Canada asserting that the need for a coherent policy was masked by essentially ephemeral manufacturing growth in the 1960s He suggests policymakers focus on the mechanics of producing wealth rather than merely distributing it The Transition to Reality is a bracing and often contrary entry into the vibrant political economy debates of the early 1980s

Canada Can Compete! Joseph R. D'Cruz, James Douglas Fleck, 1985 From the back cover Canada can compete in international markets but not the authors contend under the present national economic strategy Policies that redistribute income and allocate resources through government fiat have weakened Canada s ability to transform its manufacturing sector to meet the new competitive challenges D Cruz and Fleck compare the performance of seventy one Canadian industries from 1967 to 1981 with industries in Japan the United States Britain and France To enhance the competitiveness of Canadian manufacturing the authors propose a differential industrial strategy one that emphasizes growth and development Government they say must play a hands off role in Canada s market economy limiting itself to establishing the rules of the game The authors recommend in addition macro economic policies that would reduce the federal deficit restrain wages for public servants preserve low differentials between Canadian and American interest rates and maintain the Canadian dollar at 70 cents U S

Canadian Industrial Development, 1982 Annual Report on Labour Organization in Canada, 1927 Canadian textile journal, 1927 Canada Among Nations 1986 Brian Tomlin, Maureen Appel Molot, 1987 The 1986 edition of Canada Among Nations chronicles the momentous ongoing debates concerning free trade negotiations with the United States From the start the free trade talks were bedevilled by a flurry of protectionist moves in the U S the most inflammatory involving a proposed duty on Canadian softwood lumber In the face of American belligerence the Mulroney government appeared indecisive on the lumber issue it insisted that it would neither negotiate nor impose an export tax and then did both In addition to free trade Canada Among

Nations treats issues including Canada's foreign policy its economic situation relations with the third world and response to contemporary arms control proposals

International Economic Integration: Integration schemes Miroslav Jovanovic, 1998

Economics of Industrial Policy and Strategy D. G. McFetridge, 1986 The papers in this volume are concerned with industrial strategy what it is and which strategy if any Canada should adopt Each paper approaches the issues in a different way and yet there is a common thread to their conclusions

How Ottawa Spends, 2010-2011 G. Bruce Doern, Christopher Stoney, 2010-05-01 Informed authors from across Canada examine recession related policy fields including the Canadian banking system new industrial policy pressures such as the automotive industry bailout policies in science technology and innovation and suggestions about how to resist the United States buy America trade policies The chapters in this volume also consider Canada's national regional and political divisiveness the impact of the dynamic Obama Administration on Canadian domestic affairs and governance during a time of minority government

The Canadian Annual Review of Public Affairs, 1903

A New Special Relationship Peter Morici, 1991 This study examines from an American perspective the impact of the free trade agreement FTA on the evolution of the Canada United States economic relationship It puts into historical context the special trading relationship between Canada and the United States which prevailed over the early postwar period It examines how FTA rules and dispute settlement procedures create an effective basis for managing bilateral economic relationships in the context of more decentralized policy processes It also explores the potential impact on the bilateral trading regime of the changing nature of international competition the adjustments taking place in the structure of the Canadian and American economies and the challenges posed by continuing technological change

Report on Labour Organization in Canada, 1924

Trade, Industrial Policy, and International Competition, Second Edition Richard G. Harris, 2015-10-01 Richard Harris's now classic study on trade and industrial policy was written for the Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada also known as the Macdonald Commission First published in 1985 when the Canadian economy faced dramatic changes arising from the emergence of manufacturing competitors among newly industrialized nations and increased protectionism in the US its recommendations were instrumental in the negotiation of the North America Free Trade Agreement Addressing the key issues surrounding the design and choice of policies for the Canadian economy Trade Industrial Policy and International Competition reviews the theory and evidence concerning trade liberalization as a mechanism to enhance economic growth disinvestment in sections that are disadvantageous in the international marketplace and future problems for the marketing sector caused by increasing competition from developing countries Drawing from many streams of conventional economic thinking Harris develops an original and sophisticated model for assessing the broader economic impacts of trade liberalization on the Canadian economy He concludes that free trade and industrial policy should be regarded as complementary not substitutes for one another and recommends a free trade agreement with the United States as a top priority A new introduction by David Wolfe situates this work within its time and shows how Harris's analytical insights and policy prescriptions are as relevant today as they were originally crafted three decades ago
