Carcinogenesis and Cancer Prevention Harri U. Vainio, Eino K. Hietanen, 2013-04-17 A large proportion of cancers is preventable External factors discovered by epidemiological studies during the last 50 years account for a majority of all cancer deaths However still rather little is known about how environmental and genetic factors interact how they may regulate gene activation etc And it is a long way from the discovery of a basic regulatory mechanism to practical patient treatment This volume describes the present state of the art in carcinogenesis possibilities for cancer prevention and gives genetic background in cancer development Attention is given to the host environment interaction considering how this interaction may lead to cancer formation and how it can be utilised in cancer prevention The molecular basis for cancer development and the molecular basis for prevention are described Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods Mitchell

H. Gail, Jacques Benichou, 2000-11-02 Featuring articles from the prestigious Encyclopedia of Biostatistics many of which have been revised and updated to include recent developments the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods also includes newly commissioned articles reflecting the latest thinking in Cancer Registries Birth Defect Registries Meta Analysis of Epidemiologic Studies Epidemiology Overview Sample Size Sex Ratio at Birth Software Design and Analysis Featuring contributions from leading experts in academia government and industry the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods has been designed to complement existing texts on the subject by providing further extensive up to date coverage of specialised topics and by introducing the reader to the research literature Offering a wealth of information in a single resource the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods Offers an excellent introduction to a vast array of specialised topics Includes in depth coverage of the statistical underpinnings of contemporary epidemiologic methods Provides concise definitions and introductions to numerous concepts found in the current literature Uses extensive cross references helping to facilitate further research and enabling the reader to locate definitions and related concepts In addition to featuring extensive articles in the areas of descriptive and analytic epidemiology the Encyclopedia also provides the reader with articles on case control design and offers substantial coverage of allied statistical methods

Cancer in Italian Migrant Populations Lega italiana per la lotta contro i tumori,1993 Migration provides a sort of natural experiment which permits comparisons of disease risk in populations or similar genetic background living in different environments Many countries worldwide have large communities of Italian origin as a result of the emigration of some 26 million people from Italy over the last 100 years This volume reports data from each of nine host countries for which cancer incidence or mortality data are available by country of birth and compares them with the local born in those countries and with the population that remained in Italy Where possible the data are also analyzed by duration of stay in the host country and or age at arrival and comments are made on possible environmental causes for the changes observed National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1990
