Coalition Navies during the Korean War Ian Bowers, 2024-02-13 This book presents a detailed assessment of the role of navies in the Korean War It highlights that despite being predominantly a land war navies played a vital part Moreover the naval war was not solely a U S operation Smaller navies from many countries made important contributions both in supporting the United States and carrying out independent and combined naval operations This subject holds special importance since current Western strategic thinking and capabilities emphasise the necessity of combined naval operations involving multiple navies in any potential future naval conflict The example set by the Korean War therefore offers valuable insights into the operational and strategic problems and benefits and opportunities of contemporary Canada and the End of Empire Phillip Buckner, 2007-10-01 Sir John and future combined coalition naval operations Seeley once wrote that the British Empire was acquired in a fit of absence of mind Whatever the truth of this comment it is certainly arguable that the Empire was dismantled in such a fit This collection deals with a neglected subject in post Confederation Canadian history the implications to Canada and Canadians of British decolonization and the end of empire Canada and the End of Empire looks at Canadian diplomatic relations with the United Kingdom and the United States the Suez crisis the changing economic relationship with Great Britain in the 1950s and 1960s the role of educational and cultural institutions in maintaining the British connection the royal tour of 1959 the decision to adopt a new flag in 1964 the efforts to find a formula for repatriating the constitution the Canadianization of the Royal Canadian Navy and the attitude of First Nations to the changed nature of the Anglo Canadian relationship Historians in Commonwealth countries tend to view the end of British rule from a nationalist perspective Canada and the End of Empire challenges this view and demonstrates the centrality of imperial history in Canadian historiography An important addition to the growing canon of empire studies and imperial history this book will be of interest to historians of the Commonwealth and to scholars and students interested in the relationship between colonialism and nationalism Cold War Workers Isabel Campbell, 2025-04-15 When Canada sought to protect its borders and aid its allies during the Cold War many people were recruited to build the emerging security state as construction and maintenance workers engineers members of the armed forces medical researchers and research subjects Security work transformed the lives of individuals families and communities in ways that were both predictable and surprising and both beneficial and harmful the militarization and colonization of Indigenous lives and lands was especially disruptive The opening essays of Cold War Workers intimately portray the complicated effects of Cold War labour upon Indigenous lives Elmer Sinclair a residential school survivor and member of the Canadian Armed Forces achieved equality with white men through his militarized masculinity. His more positive professional experience contrasts with those of Indigenous workers on northern radar lines many of whom lost languages connections to the land and other elements of traditional cultures as they sought new skills and better employment Diverse Indigenous experiences of Cold War security work set the scene for the second set of essays which explore the impact of security preoccupations on marginalized groups the study of extreme isolation through scientific experimentation on human subjects the targeting of gay men with psychiatric labelling to enforce an idealized masculinity and the restriction of gender mobility in the Canadian military and the pushback from servicewomen Cold War Workers raises questions about the influence of settler colonial masculine institutional values on those who laboured for the Cold War state and society By comparing the experiences of different types of workers families and communities this volume reveals how race gender and privilege affected people in varied and sometimes unexpected ways The First Century of Methodism in Canada: 1775-1839 Joseph Edward Sanderson, 1908

The First Century of Methodism in Canada: 1840-1883 Joseph Edward Sanderson,1910 The Politics of Procurement Aaron Plamondon,2010-07-01 In 1993 Canada's Liberal Party cancelled an order to replace the Sea King maritime helicopter The Liberals claimed the Tory plan was too expensive but the cancellation itself actually cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars The incident drew public attention to the waste in Canada's defence spending and to the under equipped state of its military Aaron Plamondon ties the bungled attempts to replace the Sea King before and since 1993 to the evolution of the weapons procurement process in Canada since Confederation He reveals that partisan politics rather than a desire to increase the military's capabilities has driven the nation's policy makers
