

A monochromatic, reddish-brown photograph of a group of approximately 15 young people, likely students, standing in front of a multi-story brick building. The group is arranged in two rows, with some individuals standing on a low wall or ledge in the back. They are dressed in mid-20th-century attire, including sweaters, button-down shirts, and trousers. The building behind them has several windows, some of which are arched. The overall tone is historical and academic.

Canadian Marxists And The Search For A Third Way:

Canadian Marxists and the Search for a Third Way Peter Campbell, 2000-01-01 Focusing on four individuals Canadian Marxists and the Search for a Third Way describes the lives and ideas of Ernest Winch Bill Pritchard Bob Russell and Arthur Mould and examines their efforts to put their ideas into practice Campbell begins by looking at their childhoods in Great Britain particularly their religious upbringing He considers their family life their attitudes toward women and ethnic minorities what they were reading and what effect that reading had on their theory and practice He describes their lives as labor leaders and advocates of socialism revealing how tenaciously in an increasingly hierarchical bureaucratized and state driven capitalist society they held to the idea that socialism must be created by the working class itself This is a unique look at four Canadian Marxists and their struggle to create an educated disciplined democratic mass based movement for revolutionary change

Canadian Marxists and the Search for a Third Way J. Peter Campbell, 1999 Campbell traces their childhoods in late Victorian England and Scotland explores their early political and religious influences details their involvement in the labour and socialist movements of Canada and assesses their legacy to the Canadian working class BOOK JACKET

In Search of a Third Way Tom Settle, 1976 In Search of a Third Way redefines the goals of governments organizations and individuals proposing a politico economic system devoted deliberately to the public good Professor settle reveals errors in the West s liberal capitalism which explain its failure to allocate scarce goods fairly He rejects communism despite its fairer allocation because of its threat to individual freedom Instead he offers the broad basis of a political economy aimed at improving both systems The product of a broad intellect and a wide ranging knowledge this is a book that may well change the terms of the on going debate about the public good a debate that until now has been seen only in the light if rightist or leftist political doctrines

Labouring the Canadian Millennium Bryan D. Palmer, Canadian Committee on Labour History, 2000 This is a collection of commissioned essays that are purposively eclectic but that address themes of importance in understanding labour s significance and history over the course of the last century as well as suggesting how labour will inevitably face changing circumstances
