Cancer And Cure:

Three Daughters, Three Journeys Jill Charles, Indrani Mondal, Ranjita Chattopadhyay, Ananda Chakrabarty, 2017-05-18
Cancer threatens the lives of people around the world. Women in particular are at risk of certain cancers with a genetic cause. Certain mutations in the BRCA1 and BRCA2 genes put mothers and daughters at risk of breast and ovarian cancers. Unlike many cancers that most commonly occur after age 60, these inheritable cancers threaten women's lives, health, and fertility even when they are young. Before most would even begin to go for annual mammogram screenings to check for breast cancer, Three Daughters, Three Journeys takes on the biggest health issue of our time from a global perspective with three heroines fighting for their lives against cancer. Marzena, a Polish oncology nurse, has spent her life treating child patients with cancer. Then she confronts it in her own family and her own body. Kamola, a rural Indian girl, knows she has symptoms of the same disease that took her mother but feels afraid to discuss it with her father and brothers, knowing her family cannot afford medical treatment. Kamola confides in Dr. Rini Mishra, a doctor testing a new treatment called Neelazin, using a bacterial anticancer protein in food to destroy cancer cells. Selena, a wealthy woman of color in Chicago, finds out about her genetic risks of breast and ovarian cancer. She has a choice of preventative surgery that will save her life but remove any chance of having children. As she meets women who struggle to afford cancer treatment, Selena dedicates her life to providing affordable homes and counseling to families affected by the disease. Although the drug Neelazin is fictional, the possibility of new cancer treatments using bacterial anticancer proteins is being researched now. A problem with the current chemotherapy for cancer treatment is the high toxicity of most of these drugs, as these drugs can enter both normal and cancer cells, though preferably cancer cells, causing the death of normal cells as well that are important in maintaining health. Another problem is that current chemotherapeutic drugs mostly target a single or few key steps that are important for cancer growth and proliferation and inhibit the growth of cancer cells. The cancer cells respond by quickly changing these single targets, thereby becoming resistant to the drugs, as is reflected in stage IV cancer patients. An alternative to chemotherapy would be to exploit the bacterial evolutionary wisdom and use certain proteins that can have preferential entry to cancer cells in order to minimize normal cell toxicity and multiple targets in cancer cells through protein-protein complex formation, thus reducing resistance development in cancer cells. An interesting advantage of protein drugs is to express them as part of food, and some recent research seems to suggest that oral consumption of such foods may allow the therapeutic protein to reach the blood stream to target the cancer. Women with the genetic risk factors could soon have the choice of taking a pill or such anticancer protein-expressing food to treat or prevent cancer rather than removing the healthy tissue of the breasts and ovaries. Hopefully, they would not have to choose between fertility and survival, as is the implied message in this book, fictional as it is at this time. Treatment Isaac Lasley,2014-07-11 If you want to understand how an untested gene therapy may be utilized to cure cancers then you have found the right book You will find out how cancer attacks human cells and how a virus may be modified to attack cancer cells to induce natural cell death called apoptosis Cancers are diagnosed in human cells when they have genetically mutated Simply cancer cells are mutated human cells that do not function properly and have reproduced but the cancer cells do retain some human DNA and cell functions that can be stimulated like apoptosis If apoptosis is stimulated in cancer cells then the cells would die and be naturally flushed out of the body and not need to be surgically removed Just know that if cancer ever is cured then the multibillion dollar a year treatment and nonprofit search for a cure industries that deal directly with cancer would be out of the job We can only hope that a cure for cancer will be embraced in the near future
