Schottenfeld, 1974 Cancer Epidemiology and Prevention David Schottenfeld, Joseph F. Fraumeni, 1982 This volume provides the most comprehensive and authoritative account of cancer epidemiology currently available The long awaited Second Edition has been greatly expanded and contains much new material on cancer biology molecular epidemiology preventive strategies and specific types and sites of cancer It represents a systematic updating and expansion of its predecessor while retaining a similar organization No other source contains so much information on risk factors for cancer New chapters describe the emerging methodology and applications of molecular genetics such as the stages in neoplastic development and molecular epidemiology in cancer prevention The epidemiologic reviews of risk factors and causal mechanisms for specific types of cancer include new sections on anus vagina and vulva Among the other new sections is a chapter on the principles and applications of cancer prevention A critical and authoritative review of the complex issues in preventive oncology this book will be invaluable in planning strategic preventive interventions at the community level the workplace the physicians office or the clinic Textbook of Cancer Epidemiology Hans-Olov Adami, David John Hunter, Dimitrios Trichopoulos, 2008 This title gives a systematic account of what is currently known about the epidemiology and the potential of primary prevention for most forms of human cancer Cancer Epidemiology Isabel dos Santos Silva, International Agency for Research on Cancer, 1999 A basic textbook addressed to medical and public health students clinicians health professionals and all others seeking to understand the principles and methods used in cancer epidemiology Written by a prominent epidemiologist and experienced teacher at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine the text aims to help readers become competent in the use of basic epidemiological tools and capable of exercising critical judgment when assessing results reported by others Throughout the text a lively writing style and numerous illustrative examples often using real research data facilitate an easy understanding of basic concepts and methods Information ranges from an entertaining account of the origins of epidemiology through advice on how to overcome some of the limitations of survival analysis to a checklist of questions to ask when considering sources of bias Although statistical concepts and formulae are presented the emphasis is consistently on the interpretation of the data rather than on the actual calculations The text has 18 chapters The first six introduce the basic principles of epidemiology and statistics Chapters 7-13 deal in more depth with each of the study designs and interpretation of their findings Two chapters concerned with the problems of confounding and study size cover more complex statistical concepts and are included for advanced study A chapter on methodological issues in cancer prevention gives examples of epidemiology's contribution to primary prevention screening and other activities for early detection and tertiary prevention The concluding chapters review the role of cancer registries and discuss practical considerations that should be taken into account in the design planning and conduct of any type of epidemiological research Insights in Cancer Epidemiology and Prevention: 2021 Paolo Boffetta, Dana Kristjansson, 2022-11-30

Cancer Epidemiology Amr Soliman, David Schottenfeld, USA, Paolo Boffetta, 2013-07-18 According to the World Health Organization's 2008 GLOBOCAN report 64% of global cancer deaths and 56% of cancer cases were registered in countries in Africa Asia or Latin America So while cancer is unquestionably a global burden its reach in the developing world points to the need for specialized study on cancer in these countries Cancer Epidemiology Low and Middle Income Countries and Special Populations reviews the current status of cancer epidemiologic research and training rationale requisite infrastructure methodologic principles and illustrative examples in low and middle income countries in order to facilitate future advances by trained health professionals The result is a valuable resource for both program leaders and graduate and post graduate students pursuing careers in international cancer epidemiologic research The Prevention of Cancer Richard Doll, 2008-05-01 Epidemiological studies show that cancer incidence is far more dependent on the conditions of life than previously supposed Classically cancers occurred with heavy exposure to a specific occupational hazard or were associated with habits In some instances research shows the incidence of cancer falls when the method of work or the associated habit is changed In short variation in incidence is now known to be the rule rather than the exception in cancer No cancer that occurs with even moderate frequency occurs everywhere and always to the same extent Sometimes it is even epidemic similar in scale to an epidemic of infectious disease but modified by the fact that the induction period may be as much as thirty years Prevention of cancer is now coming to be regarded as a practicable alternative to its cure We remain almost totally ignorant of how cancer is produced at the cellular level and until we know this our methods of prevention are liable to be cumbersome and inefficient Ethical considerations and the time scale of the disease make it impossible to obtain experimental evidence in man and what action to take has been determined from observing nature's experiments and by analogy from experiments in animals The evidence from epidemiological studies is of particular interest Such studies suggest relationships that would never be thought of in the ordinary course of laboratory work and results that are directly relevant to the problems of human disease The large numbers at risk and the intensity of the medical care to which people with cancer are subjected make it possible to recognize relatively small improvements Such practical decisions based on information thus obtained have largely eliminated the risk of cancer due to occupational hazards in several industries Richard Doll 1912 2005 was a British psychologist and one of the most prominent epidemiologists of the twentieth century Throughout his research he was able to link smoking with health problems and was the first individual to link smoking with lung cancer and increased risk of heart disease He also studies the relationship between asbestos and lung cancer and radiation and leukemia He is the author of many books including The Causes of Cancer Quantitative Estimates of Avoidable Risks of Cancer in the United States Today and Tobacco and Health Cancer Epidemiology, Prevention, and Screening, 1992 International Symposium-Workshop on Epidemiology and Prevention of Cancer H. R. H. Princess Chulabhorn, S. Tominaga, K. S. Zanker, Chulabhorn Research Institute, 1998 Advances and Future Directions of Cancer Epidemiology and Prevention Kazuo Tajima, 2014 Cancer Epidemiology Among Asian Americans Anna H. Wu, Daniel O. Stram, 2016-10-14 Cancer Epidemiology in Asian Americans is a comprehensive volume that provides the most current research on cancer etiology within this fast growing population sub group in the United States The book explores epidemiologic methods that are typically used in migrant studies providing descriptive epidemiology of cancer patterns separately in Chinese Japanese Filipino and other Asian ethnic groups including Asian Indians Koreans Vietnamese and other Southeast Asians A major focus of the volume provides reviews of analytic risk factors for specific cancer sites including lung colorectal prostate breast liver and more These chapters aim to explain the increases or decreases in incidence rates of various cancers upon migration paying attention to changing risk factor prevalence the importance of timing of exposures and other co factors important in the etiology of these cancers Genetic determinants and gene environment relationships associated with specific cancers are also discussed This first of its kind volume that is devoted to studies of cancer in Asian Americans provides a foundation to better understanding of environmental and lifestyle causes of cancer in this group identifying gaps in our knowledge and potential strategies for prevention Cancer Epidemiology Mukesh Verma, 2008-11-01 Population studies and epidemiology facilitate the discovery of genetic and environmental determinants of cancer and the development of new approaches to cancer control and prevention therefore they play a central role in the creation of health policies Cancer Epidemiology compiles areas of research which cover etiological factors or determinants that contribute to the development of cancer and describe the latest technologies in cancer epidemiology In Volume 1 Host Susceptibility Factors leading experts provide chapters on cancer incidence prevalence mortality and surveillance methods technologies and study design in cancer epidemiology as well as host susceptibility factors in cancer epidemiology Although a non standard volume of the highly successful Methods in Molecular Biology™ series this comprehensive text retains the commitment of the series to collecting the kind of detailed up to date information and implementation advice that is crucial for getting optimal results Cutting edge and essential Cancer Epidemiology allows readers to get the maximum advantage of the methods involved in this exciting and important field Cancer Risks and Prevention Martin P. Vessey, 1985 Cancer Precursors Eduardo L. Franco, Thomas E. Rohan, 2013-11-27 Cancer Precursors is a groundbreaking multidisciplinary text containing a comprehensive overview of methodological issues associated with the study of pre cancerous conditions as well as reviews of the contributions of descriptive analytical and molecular epidemiological research to knowledge about cancer precursors at specific anatomical locations The research focuses on the early natural history of cancers by helping to define the etiology of precursor lesions improving the means of detecting them either directly or via testing of surrogate biomarkers and by elucidating the role of remote causes leading to the early onset of such lesions Journal of the National Cancer Institute, 1999 Cancer Prevention: The Causes and Prevention of Cancer — Volume 1 Graham A. Colditz, D.J. Hunter, 2006-04-11 This Cancer Prevention book series aims to complement the research reported in the journal Cancer Causes and Control Volumes in this series will summarize the state of the science from causes to prevention of cancer The scope will be international The past 20 years has seen an explosion of epidemiologic material on the causes of cancer Examples include the growing number of studies of physical activity and colon cancer which have emerged and the numerous studies of components of diet such as alcohol and the risk of specific cancers Major shifts in resource allocation now focus on translation of this new knowledge to actual cancer prevention programs Researchers practicing clinicians and those who write and implement public health policy need this information summarized in an easily accessible format The abundance of knowledge increasing understanding of how to communicate risk of cancer to the public and greater public awareness of cancer make the coming years ones in which we will see many new attempts at widespread cancer prevention programs For example the U S Centers for Disease Control and Prevention launched a national colon cancer awareness campaign in early 1999 A Quick Guide to Cancer Epidemiology Paolo Boffetta, Stefania Boccia, Carlo La Vecchia, 2014-03-22 A Quick Guide to Cancer Epidemiology is an ideal addition to Springer Briefs in Cancer Research The Brief provides core concepts in cancer epidemiology and also gives a snapshot of the epidemiology of seventeen human cancers The Brief aims to provide with quantitative focus estimates of the global burden of neoplasms of recent and likely future trends distribution causes and strategies for prevention for major groups of cancers Finally the Brief will give an overview of several factors that cause cancer including dietary factors tobacco smoking obesity and alcohol consumption
