Hansel and Gretel's diary

Thursday 19th April 1813

You will never believe what happened to my brother and me today. We'll have been in the forest for days, every inch of hope down the drain. Exhausted, weak and famished, we were travelling through the forest, miserably dragging our meagreest just behind us, when a soft young man entered our minds. The young man made our eyes wider and our mouths water. Heard him, we looked up to find a beautiful, handsome man with sweet words of all kinds a lovely man, smiling, one of helping trees, was surrounded with perfectly placed things and various coloured flowerbeds of baked meats. We were able to market anything we wanted. We wondered who could bring us delicious such as this. At first, we felt nervous, for it was such an important sign.

Heard, Hansel's sweet words got the better of him, and I caught his hand off the door handle. With his teeth still clamped down, the handle began to spin. Hansel dragged to the floor to check and scuffed backwards on his hands and feet like a crab. Expected, at first... but then I saw a pair of white, luminous eyes appear in the crack of the door. With a soft creak, the door opened wide, and a just old lady with a soft smile materialised in the doorway. I squeaked and immediately waved Hansel away from the bakery building, but the elderly woman was still smiling. Gladly, Heard that was happy. She must have imagined the face of Jesus. With the offer of warm food and a cosy blanket, she welcomed us inside. Hansel and I experienced a look of approval light rapidly heading towards the doorway. We accepted the old lady's compassion. The offer of a safe warm bed made away from the woodland near was way too good to refuse.

Inside the village, food and warmth were plentiful. The smiling helped from the room made my eyes drop. I wanted to let the boy. After stuffing a pile of blackberry preserves, that seemed more than enough, the generous woman offered us a comfortable bed. I snuggled up under my cosy blanket, Heard for the first time. It was then that a white candle popped my bubble of happiness.
