Diary Of A Wwi Pilot:

The Diary & Letters of a World War I Fighter Pilot Christopher M. Burgess, 2008-10-17 This is a first hand account of the authors grandfather Guy Mainwaring Knocker and his experiences as a pilot in the R F C in the First World War written as a series of letters and diary entries He wrote letters virtually every day to his family while he trained in England and was in service in France and often illustrated them with little sketches Guy was a gifted artist particularly pencil and Pen ink and also an excellent photographer He flew with No 65 Fighter Squadron that was formed in June 1916 as a fighter squadron and flew to France in March 1917 in time to play a prominent part in the air operations during the Battles of Arras In June 1917 the squadron moved to Calais for special patrol work in the Dover Straits area to intercept enemy aircraft raiding England

Diary of a Night Bomber Pilot in World War I Clive Semple, 2008-03-28 Flying at 18 demobbed at 20 Semple s astonishing experience has been meticulously put into context How do you fly a Handley Page across France in total darkness The answer is the Lighthouse system just one of the revelations in this unique record of ingenuity and courage Diary of a WWI Pilot Harvey Conover, Frances Conover Church, 2004 Death in the Air Wesley D. Archer, 2016-07-30 The typewritten script of a First World War pilot s diary with a large number of photographs was submitted to the publishers William Heinemann and published by them in 1933 Heinemann stated on the book s jacket that the diary contained no names dates or anything that could reveal the identity of the writer or the squadron in which he served The publishers understood that the diarist was killed in action in 1918 and that it was in deference to the wishes of those who were close to him that his diary should be published So remarkable were the photographs that their veracity was immediately questioned but no proof of their authenticity or otherwise could be ascertained It was not until 1983 that a collection of documents photographs and artifacts was presented to the Smithsonian s National Air and Space Museum Some of the photographs were recognized as being those of the mystery diarist and the truth was soon revealed The author was Wesley Archer an American with Canadian parents who served with the RFC in the First World War and the photographs and diary had been faked Death in the Air, 1936
