Edward J. Larson, 2011-05-31 Examines the pioneering Antarctic expeditions of the early twentieth century within the context of a larger scientific social and geopolitical context      Woman with the Iceberg Eyes: Oriana F. Wilson Katherine MacInnes, 2019-10-07 Captain Scott's expedition to the Antarctic the most famous story of exploration in the world played out on the great ice stage in the south Oriana Wilson wife of Scott's best friend and fellow explorer Dr Edward Wilson was watching from the wings She is the missing link between many of the notable polar names of the time and was allowed into a man's world at a time when the British suffragettes were marching Oriana is the lens through which their secrets are revealed What really happened both in the Antarctic and at home Why did Scott's Terra Nova expedition nearly end in mutiny before it had even begun Were the explorers diaries as heroic as they appeared to be Only Oriana can tell She began as a dutiful housewife but emerged as a scientist and collector in her own right and was the first white woman to venture into the jungles of Darwin Australia Edward Wilson named Oriana Ridge a little known piece of Antarctica after her on their tenth wedding anniversary Oriana Wilson has been quiet for a century but this biography gives her a voice and provides a unique insight into the early twentieth century through her clear blue iceberg eyes      Return to Antarctica Adrian Raeside, 2009-09-29 By 1910 the Antarctic was the last place on earth that had never been explored and British naval officer Robert Scott was obsessed that an Englishman specifically himself should conquer the pole Despite being under funded under equipped and unprepared Scott sailed south in the antiquated whaling ship Terra Nova in what everyone assumed would be a cracking good adventure The expedition was made up entirely of British adventurers gadabouts and scientists the exception being one Canadian Charles Seymour Silas Wright Born 1887 in Toronto Charles Wright was studying physics in Cambridge when he heard Scott was looking for a physicist to join the expedition to the pole By the time Wright inquired Scott had chosen a physicist for the team but was short a glaciologist Who else but a Canadian would know about glaciers Wright became the expedition's glaciologist Halfway through the rough passage to the Antarctic Scott got word that a rival explorer Norwegian Roald Amundsen was also making a run for the pole and was close on their heels What started out as a stroll to the South Pole became a race between two very determined and different men Arriving at their base camp on Cape Evans in January 1911 Scott's team soon discovered they were unprepared for the Antarctic while equipment failures and food shortages compounded the hardship For the final race to the pole Scott stripped the team down to four men and Wright did not make the cut Scott reached the geographic South Pole only to find that Amundsen had beaten them by days Bitterly disappointed Scott and his companions returned to base camp but were caught in a fierce Antarctic blizzard that raged for days Too weak to pull their sleds and out of food and fuel they froze to death Ironically as if to underscore the litany of errors that dogged the expedition they perished only a few miles from a cache of food and fuel Next spring Wright led a search party to look for the remains of Scott and his party and it was the sharp eyed Wright who spotted a small patch of green on a snowy landscape the tent containing Scott and his companions frozen bodies Wright returned to England and went on to do even more extraordinary things including inventing trench wireless in WWI and working closely with Winston Churchill developing the technology to assist in the allied invasion of Europe in WWII which included developing the first radar installations and inventing the technology that neutralized German magnetic sea mines After a stint as naval attaché to Washington D C and Director of Scripps Oceanographic institute in La Jolla California he retired to Salt Spring Island BC passing away in 1975 Typically Canadian Wright was modest about his accomplishments with few Canadians aware of his amazing life and the extraordinary impact he had on the 20th century     Reader's Index and Guide ,1913     Diary of the Terra Nova Expedition to the Antarctic 1910-1912 ,1972     Proceedings of the Royal Geographical Society of Tahan,2019-01-04 This book is an analytical account of how Roald Amundsen used sledge dogs to discover the South Pole in 1911 and is the first to name and identify all 116 Polar dogs who were part of the Norwegian Antarctic Expedition of 1910 1912 The book traces the dogs from their origins in Greenland to Antarctica and beyond and presents the author's findings regarding which of the dogs actually reached the South Pole and which ones returned Using crewmember diaries reports and written correspondence the book explores the strategy methodology and personal insights of the explorer and his crew in employing canines to achieve their goal as well as documents the controversy and internal dynamics involved in this historic discovery It breaks ground in presenting the entire story of how the South Pole was truly discovered using animals and how deep and profound the differences of perception were regarding the use of canines for exploration This historic tale sheds light on Antarctic exploration history and the human nature relationship It gives recognition to the significant role that animals played in this important part of history
