

A wide-angle photograph of an Antarctic landscape. In the foreground, a dark, jagged rock formation juts out from the right side. A small figure of a person stands on the edge of this rock, looking out over the vast, flat, white expanse of the ice sheet. The horizon is distant, with a range of low, snow-capped mountains visible under a pale, overcast sky. The overall color palette is dominated by whites, greys, and muted blues, with a soft, diffused light.
