The Determinants of Arab Economic Development Yusif Abdalla Sayigh, Yūsuf ‘Abd Allāh Ṣā’igh, 1978 The Determinants of Arab Economic Development Yusuf Sayigh, 2014-10-30 This book explores in depth the factors determining economic development in the Arab region The particular factors relevant to the Arab world are also set within the context of the broad political economy of underdevelopment The factors are identified as comprising three main groups economic political administrative and socio cultural petroleum and regional Arab economic development are examined separately The force and operation of each determinant is further assessed in the context of the individual countries from which the author is able to arrive at some important conclusions concerning the interaction of these determinants and their impact upon development First published in 1978

Mobilizing Human Resources in the Arab World (RLE Economy of Middle East) R. Paul Shaw, 2015-05-15 R Paul Shaw has travelled widely in the Arab world obtaining data and gathering impressions first hand from national and local planners In this book he identifies population and manpower problems that are likely to become more serious and more difficult to solve if they are neglected at this early stage of Arab development He focuses on five broad areas which are directly or indirectly related to mobilizing human resources and his book will be of special interest to all those who are concerned with such issues as population migration employment inequality the emancipation of women construction and agriculture Dr Shaw proposes policy directives which are sensitive to the problems as they are seen by the Arab governments themselves and sets out practical guidelines which can be used by Arab planners and policy makers An important feature of the book with respect to current literature on Arab development is that it moves away from a preoccupation with growth related investments to a concentration on development related population manpower and employment issues By bringing together such comprehensive empirical and bibliographic information it will also be invaluable as a reference source for some twenty Arab countries First published in 1983

Arab Oil Policies in the 1970s (RLE Economy of Middle East) Yusuf A. Sayigh, 2015-05-15 Until 1973 few people either in the advanced industrial countries or in the developing countries of the Third World thought seriously on the issues and complexities involved in the production and marketing of the oil on which they relied It was only with the sudden steep increases in oil prices that the oil industry became a matter of general discussion and the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries OPEC became a front page topic for analysis and comment However real understanding of the organisation and its policies did not accompany this rush of interest and much confusion has followed In particular the Arab exporters have received the weight of the criticism although they have only a share in the market and not a monopoly This book attempts to instil a greater mutual understanding between oil exporters and importers although it is not a wholesale endorsement of Arab policies by outlining the major policy areas in this field It looks at new policy options and their implications in exploration marketing and pricing and at downstream operations such as the petrochemical and gas industries In conclusion this study identifies the wide ranging opportunities that the new oil policies have opened up for the Arab countries in the national regional and international context and assesses and clarifies the responsibilities which accompany this success First published in 1983

Change and Development in the Middle East (Routledge Revivals) Clarke John, Bowen-Jones Howard, 2013-10-14 The Middle East is a region of great traditional diversity which has been characterized by immense political social and economic changes still developing over thirty years after the title's original publication A group of oil rich countries have achieved great political significance and some of the highest per capita incomes in the world Much modern development has been spatially polarized accentuating the concentrations of rapidly growing populations and posing severe problems for planners Cultivation and pastoralism the main traditional activities have often suffered from neglect and insufficient investment and both require re evaluation These are the issues addressed by this volume first published in 1981 which contains a series of overviews and case studies written by present or former members of staff and research students of the Department of Geography in the University of Durham in honour of W B Fisher Change and Development in the Middle East provides an interesting and relevant geographical and demographic analysis of this diverse and volatile region
