Resources in Education ,1998 Human Rights Indicators in Development Siobhan

McInerney-Lankford,Hans-Otto Sano,2010-10-26 Human rights indicators are central to the application of human rights standards in context and relate essentially to measuring human rights realization both qualitatively and quantitatively They offer an empirical or evidence based dimension to the normative content of human rights legal obligations and a provide means of connecting those obligations with empirical data and evidence and in this way relate to human rights accountability and the enforcement of human rights obligations Human rights indicators are important both for assessment and diagnostic purposes the assessment function of human rights indicators relates to their use in monitoring accountability effectiveness and impact while the diagnostic purposes relates to measuring the current state of human rights implementation and enjoyment in a given context whether regional country specific or local This paper offers a preliminary review of the foregoing in the development context and a general perspective on the significance of human rights indicators for development processes and outcomes It is not intended to be prescriptive and does not provide specific operational recommendations on the use of human rights indicators in development projects Nor does it advocate a particular approach or mode of integrating human rights in development or argue for a rights based approach to development This paper is designed to provide development practitioners with a preliminary view on the possible relevance design and use of human rights indicators in development policy and practice It also introduces a basic conceptual framework about the relationship between rights and development including in the World Bank context and surveys a range of methodological approaches on human rights measurement exploring in general terms different types of human rights indicators and their potential implications for development at three different levels of convergence or integration Manual of Fundamentals in the Teaching of Handwriting in the Public Schools Tom Sawyer,1918 Theories of Adolescent Development Barbara M. Newman,Philip R. Newman,2020-05-05 Adolescence is both universal and culturally constructed resulting in diverse views about its defining characteristics Theories of Adolescent Development brings together many theories surrounding this life stage in one comprehensive reference It begins with an introduction to the nature of theory in the field of adolescence including an analysis of why there are so many theories in this field The theory chapters are grouped into three sections biological systems psychological systems and societal systems Each chapter considers a family of theories including scope assumptions key concepts contributions to the study of adolescence approaches to measurement applications and a discussion of strengths and limitations of this family A concluding chapter offers an integrative analysis identifying five assumptions drawn from the theories that are essential guides for future research and application Three questions provide a focus for comparison and contrast How do the theories characterize the time and timing of adolescence What do the theories emphasize as domains that are unfolding in movement toward maturity Building on the perspective of Positive Youth
