Development And Socioal Change In Rural Egypt:

Development and Social Change in Rural Egypt Richard H. Adams,1986-04 Social Capital and Local Water Management in Egypt Dalia M. Gouda,2016-11-02 From the 1980s onward billions of dollars were poured into irrigation improvement programs in Egypt These aimed at improving local Nile water management through the introduction of more water efficient technology and by placing management of the improved systems in the hands of local water user associations The central premise of most of these programs was that the functioning of such associations could rely on the revival of traditional forms of social capital social networks norms and trust for their success Social Capital and Local Water Management in Egypt shows how the far reaching social changes wrought at the village level in Egypt through the twentieth century rendered such a premise implausible at best and invalid at worst Dalia Gouda examines networks of social relationships and their impact on the exercise of social control and the formation of collective action at the local level and their change over time in four villages in the Delta and Fayoum governorates Outlining three time frames pre 1952 1952 73 and 1973 to the present and moving between multiple actors farmers government officials and donor agencies Gouda shows how institutional and technological changes during each period and the social changes that coincided with them yielded mixed successes for the water user associations in respect of water management Social Capital and Local Water Management in Egypt is essential reading for anyone working in the field of community based natural resource management in Egypt including policymakers and practitioners donor agencies and civil society organizations as well as anthropologists and sociologists

The Politics of Egypt Ninette S. Fahmy,2012-10-12 This book addresses two important matters of current concern to Middle East scholars firstly the nature of the Egyptian state and society and the interactive process between them and secondly how change which would finally lead to development can be initiated The book argues that the Egyptian case represents a weak authoritarian state which through its coercive and repressive policies towards various societal forces political parties professional associations and organisations and individuals creates a weak society Individual behaviour in urban and rural communities sometimes viewed as signs of the strength of societal forces is seen here as a symptom of a weak and fragmented society The existence of a weak society in turn impedes government objectives and hinders the implementation of developmental policies and programmes further weakening the state This being the case change has to be initiated externally in both the political and economic spheres

State, Peasants, and Land in Mid-Nineteenth-Century Egypt Maha Ghalwash, 2023-05-16 An alternative reading of the relationship between the state and smallholder peasants in mid nineteenth century Egypt This book examines the rural history of Egypt during the middle years of the nineteenth century a period that is often glossed over or altogether forgotten Drawing on a wide array of archival sources some only rarely utilized by other scholars it argues that state policy targeting the peasant land tenure regime was informed by the dual economic principles of the Ottoman or traditional philosophy of statecraft and that the workings of the relevant regulations did not produce extensive peasant land loss and impoverishment Maha Ghalwash presents a rich detailed analysis of such crucial issues as land legislation tax impositions the system of tax collection modes of land acquisition large scale peasant abandonment of land the emergence of surplus lands the formation of large privileged estates distribution of village land female land inheritance and the nature of peasants political activity In investigating these issues she highlights peasant voices experiences and agential power Traditional interpretations of the rural history of nineteenth century Egypt generally specify an avaricious state so indifferent to peasant well being that it consistently developed harsh policies that led to unremitting extensive peasant impoverishment Through an examination of the relationship between the absolutist state and the majority of its subject population the peasant smallholders during 1848 63 this study shows that these ideas do not hold for the mid century period State Peasants and Land in Mid Nineteenth Century Egypt will be of interest to students of Middle East history especially Egyptian rural history as well as those of peasant studies subaltern studies gender studies and Ottoman rural history
