International Courts and the Development of International Law Nerina Boschiero, Tullio Scovazzi, Cesare Pitea, Chiara Ragni, 2013-03-15

This book contains a collection of essays by leading experts linked to the outstanding characteristics of the scholar in honour of whom it is published Tullio Treves who combines his academic background with his practical experiences of a negotiator of international treaties and a judge of an international tribunal It covers international public and private law related to international courts and the development of international law Under Article 38 of its Statute the International Court of Justice can apply judicial decisions only as a subsidiary means for the determination of rules of law However there are many reasons to believe that international courts and tribunals do play quite an important role in the progressive development of international law There are a number of decisions which are inevitably recalled as the first step or a decisive step in the process of the formation of a new rule of customary international law In these cases can the judge be considered as a subsidiary of others Are these cases compatible with the common belief that a judge cannot create law Is this a peculiarity of international law which is characterized by the existence of several courts but the lack of a legislator Do decisions by different courts lead to the consequence of a fragmented international law This volume provides the reader with an elaboration of various questions linked to the legislative role of courts In their choices of subjects some contributors have taken into account the general aspects of the development of international rules through court decisions or specific sectors of international law such as human rights international crimes international economic law environmental law and the law of the sea Others have chosen the subject of the rules on jurisdiction and procedure of international courts The question of the courts role in the development of areas of law different from public international law namely private international law and European Union law has also been considered The information and views contained in this book will be of great value to academics students judges practitioners and all others interested in the public and private international law aspects of the link between international courts and the development of international law

Development of 'International Law' by International Court of Justice Muhammad Ans Shahzad Cheema, 2023 The assignment will be focusing on International court of justice acts that helped in development of international law directly or indirectly International law itself is weak law because of heterogenic nature of state s laws Few of them overlap each other few of them don t International law is a system of treaties and agreements between nations which regulate how nations communicate with other nations other nations citizens and other nations businesses So here different international bodies came up together in working for international law in which they guide related to Trade IP and criminal activity legality among states No strong nations remained on the sidelines in World War I to give effective support to international law and the concept of third party arbitration was again threatened many of the international law s standing provisions were violated New ways of warfare presented new problems in the laws of war but attempts to disarm and ban certain types of weapons after the war failed as shown by the outbreak and course of World War II The end of hostilities in 1945 saw the world again facing major international issues including border rectification refugee treatment and administration of the territory of the defeated enemy After World War II a notable advance in international law was the definition and punishment of war crimes Attempts at a general codification of international law however proceeded slowly under the International Law Commission established in 1947 by the United Nations ICJ played its vital role which will be discussed throughout and its current position and influence would also be taken in consideration International law is a law that is always in the developing process because there is so much new input and progress made by the world which has to be inculcated so that it caters to everyone around the globe “The” Development of International Law by the International Court Hersch Lauterpacht,1958 Proceedings of the American Society of International Law at Its ... Annual Meeting American Society of International Law. Annual Meeting,American Society of International Law,1923 List of members in each vol Sustainable Development Principles in the Decisions of International Courts and Tribunals Marie-Claire Cordonier Segger,Judge C.G. Weeramantry,2017-05-08 The 2002 New Delhi Declaration of Principles of International Law relating to Sustainable Development set out seven principles on sustainable development as agreed in treaties and soft law instruments from before the 1992 Rio Earth Summit UNCED to the 2002 Johannesburg World Summit on Sustainable Development to the 2012 Rio UNCSD Recognition of the New Delhi principles is shaping the decisions of dispute settlement bodies with jurisdiction over many subjects the environment human rights trade investment and crime among others This book explores the expanding international jurisprudence incorporating principles of international law on sustainable development Through chapters by respected experts the volume documents the application and interpretation of these principles demonstrating how courts and tribunals are contributing to the world s Sustainable Development Goals by peacefully resolving disputes It charts the evolution of these principles in international law from soft law standards towards recognition as customary law in certain instances assessing key challenges to further judicial consideration of the principles and discussing for instance how their relevance for compliance and disputes related to the 2015 Paris Agreement on climate change The volume provides a unique contribution of great interest to law and policy makers judges academics students civil society and practitioners concerned with sustainable development and the law globally      Proceedings of the American Society of International Law at Its Annual Meeting American Society of International Law, American Society of International Law. Annual Meeting, 1924 List of members in each volume

Case-Law and the Development of International Law Patrícia Galvão Teles, Manuel Almeida Ribeiro, 2021-10-18 This book explores recent contributions of the case law of international courts and tribunals to the development of international law It begins by looking at how such case law has contributed to the development of the methodology of international law and to the development of procedural rules It further examines recent contributions from three major players in the international judicial arena the International Court of Justice the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea and the mechanisms for Investor State Dispute Settlement The contributors are well established academics and practitioners as well as emerging voices in international law coming from a rich and diverse regional background

Latin America and the International Court of Justice Paula Wojcikiewicz Almeida, Jean-Marc Sorel, 2016-11-25 This book aims to evaluate the contribution of Latin America to the development of international law at the International Court of Justice ICJ This contemporary approach to international adjudication includes the historical contribution of the region to the development of international law through the emergence of international jurisdictions as well as the procedural and material contribution of the cases submitted by or against Latin American states to the ICJ to the development of international law The project then conceives international jurisdictions from a multifunctional perspective which encompasses the Court as both an instrument of the parties and an organ of a value based international community This shows how Latin American states have become increasingly committed to the peaceful settlement of disputes and to the promotion of international law through adjudication It culminates with an expansion of the traditional understanding of the function of the ICJ by Latin American states including an analysis of existing challenges in the region The book will be of interest to all those interested in international dispute resolution including academic libraries the judiciary practitioners in international law government institutions academics and students alike

Developments of International Law in Treaty Making Rudiger Wolfrum, Volker Röben, 2005-03-29 The book explores the various means of making non conventional non treaty law and the cross cutting issues that they raise Law making by technical informal expert bodies Conferences of Parties international organizations the UN Security Council regional organizations and arrangements and non state actors is examined in turn This forms the basis for the analysis of the complementarity of international treaty law customary international law and non traditional law making potential subject matters of non treaty law making domestic consequences of non treaty law making proliferation of actors commissions and treaty bodies of the UN system and International courts and tribunals

The Development of International Law by the International Court, Being a Revised Edition of The Development of International Law by the Permanent Court of International Justice (1934). Sir Hersch Lauterpacht, 1958

The Making of International Law Alan Boyle, Christine Chinkin, 2007-02-22 This is a study of the principal negotiating processes and law making tools through which contemporary international law is made It does not seek to give an account of the traditional and untraditional sources and theories of international law but rather to identify the processes participants and instruments employed in the making of international law It accordingly examines some of the mechanisms and procedures whereby new rules of law are created or old rules are amended or abrogated It concentrates on the UN other international organisations diplomatic conferences codification bodies NGOs and courts Every society perceives the need to differentiate between its legal norms and other norms controlling social economic and political behaviour But unlike domestic legal systems where this distinction is typically determined by constitutional provisions the decentralised nature of the international legal system makes this a complex and contested issue Moreover contemporary international law is often the product of a subtle and evolving interplay of law making instruments both binding and non binding and of customary law and general principles Only in this broader context can the significance of so called soft law and multilateral treaties be fully appreciated An important question posed by any examination of international law making structures is the extent to which we can or should make judgments about their legitimacy and coherence and if so in what terms Put simply a law making process perceived to be illegitimate or incoherent is more likely to be an ineffective process From this perspective the assumption of law making power by the UN Security Council offers unique advantages of speed and universality but it also poses a particular challenge to the development of a more open and participatory process observable in other international law making bodies
