Weisstein, 1973-01-01 Ulrich Weisstein's collection of 21 essays offers a comparative study of Expressionism as a Modernist movement whose dynamic core lay in Germany and Austria Hungary but which transformed artistic practices in other European countries The focus Weisstein argues must be strictly and sharply aimed at a specific body of works and opinions a relatively dense core surrounded by a less clearly defined fringe zone indigenous to the German speaking countries The volume spans an Expressionist period extending from roughly 1910 to 1925 Weisstein himself contributes two introductory chapters on problems of definition and a thoughtful analysis of English Vorticism An ample context is set by comparative essays concerned with international movements such as Futurism that had an impact on German Expressionist drama prose and poetry together with essays on the adaptation of Expressionist forms in countries such as Poland Russia Hungary South Slavic nations and the United States These essays call attention to representative authors and artists as well as to periodicals and artistic circles Reviewers have praised not only the presentation of literary links and interaction among national cultures but especially the most rewarding interdisciplinary essays on Dada and on Expressionist painting music and film Die
