Devastation and Renewal Joel A. Tarr, 2004-08-11 Every city has an environmental story perhaps none so dramatic as Pittsburgh's. Founded in a river valley blessed with enormous resources three strong waterways abundant forests rich seams of coal the city experienced a century of exploitation and industrialization that degraded and obscured the natural environment to a horrific degree Pittsburgh came to be known as the Smoky City or as James Parton famously declared in 1866 hell with the lid taken off Then came the storied Renaissance in the years following World War II when the city's public and private elites abetted by technological advances came together to improve the air and renew the built environment Equally dramatic was the sweeping deindustrialization of Pittsburgh in the 1980s when the collapse of the steel industry brought down the smokestacks leaving vast tracks of brownfields and riverfront Today Pittsburgh faces unprecedented opportunities to reverse the environmental degradation of its history In Devastation and Renewal scholars of the urban environment post questions that both complicate and enrich this story Working from deep archival research they ask not only what happened to Pittsburgh's environment but why What forces economic political and cultural were at work In exploring the disturbing history of pollution in Pittsburgh they consider not only the sooty skies but also the poisoned rivers and creeks the mined hills and scarred land Who profited and who paid for such progress How did the environment Pittsburghers live in come to be and how it can be managed for the future In a provocative concluding essay Samuel P Hays explores Pittsburgh's environmental culture the attitudes and institutions that interpret a city's story and work to create change Comparing Pittsburgh to other cities and regions he exposes exaggerations of Pittsburgh's environmental achievement and challenges the community to make real progress for the future A landmark contribution to the emerging field of urban environmental history Devastation and Renewal will be important to all students of cities of cultures and of the natural world

Devastation and Renewal Joel A. Tarr, 2003-11-19 Every city has an environmental story perhaps none so dramatic as Pittsburgh's. Founded in a river valley blessed with enormous resources three strong waterways abundant forests rich seams of coal the city experienced a century of exploitation and industrialization that degraded and obscured the natural environment to a horrific degree Pittsburgh came to be known as the Smoky City or as James Parton famously declared in 1866 hell with the lid taken off Then came the storied Renaissance in the years following World War II when the city's public and private elites abetted by technological advances came together to improve the air and renew the built environment Equally dramatic was the sweeping deindustrialization of Pittsburgh in the 1980s when the collapse of the steel industry brought down the smokestacks leaving vast tracks of brownfields and riverfront Today Pittsburgh faces unprecedented opportunities to reverse the environmental degradation of its history In Devastation and Renewal scholars of the urban environment post questions that both complicate and enrich this story Working from deep archival research they ask not only what happened to Pittsburgh's environment but why What forces economic political and cultural were at work In exploring the disturbing history of pollution in Pittsburgh they consider not only the sooty skies but also the poisoned rivers and creeks the mined hills and scarred land Who profited and who paid for such progress How did the environment Pittsburghers live in come to be and how it can be managed for the future In a provocative concluding essay Samuel P Hays explores Pittsburgh s environmental culture the attitudes and institutions that interpret a city s story and work to create change Comparing Pittsburgh to other cities and regions he exposes exaggerations of Pittsburgh s environmental achievement and challenges the community to make real progress for the future A landmark contribution to the emerging field of urban environmental history Devastation and Renewal will be important to all students of cities of cultures and of the natural world     The

Making of Urban America Raymond A. Mohl, Roger Biles, 2023-10-03 The revised and updated third edition of The Making of Urban America includes seven new articles and a richly detailed historiographical essay that discusses the vast urban history literature added to the canon since the publication of the second edition The authors extensively revised introductions and the fifteen reprinted articles trace urban development from the preindustrial city to the twentieth century city With emphasis on the social economic political commercial and cultural aspects of urban history these essays illustrate the growth and change that created modern day urban life Dynamic topics such as technology immigration and ethnicity suburbanization sunbelt cities urban political history and planning and housing are examined The Making of Urban America is the only reader available that covers all of U S urban history and that also includes the most recent interpretive scholarship on the subject

Imagining the Modern Rami el Samahy, Chris Grimley, Michael Kubo, 2019-05-28 Imagining the Modern explores Pittsburgh s ambitious modern architecture and urban renewal program that made it a gem of American postwar cities and set the stage for its stature today In the 1950s and 60s an ambitious program of urban revitalization transformed Pittsburgh and became a model for other American cities Billed as the Pittsburgh Renaissance this era of superlatives the city claimed the tallest aluminum clad building the world s largest retractable dome the tallest steel structure developed through visionary mayors and business leaders powerful urban planning authorities and architects and urban designers of international renown including Frank Lloyd Wright I M Pei Mies van der Rohe SOM and Harrison Abramovitz These leaders civic groups and architects worked together to reconceive the city through local and federal initiatives that aimed to address the problems that confronted Pittsburgh s postwar development Initiated as an award winning exhibition at the Carnegie Museum of Art in 2014 Imagining the Modern untangles this complicated relationship with modern architecture and planning through a history of Pittsburgh s major sites protagonists and voices of intervention Through original documentation photographs and drawings as well as essays analytical drawings and interviews with participants this book provides a nuanced view of this crucial moment in Pittsburgh s evolution Addressing both positive and negative impacts of the era Imagining the Modern examines what took place during the city s urban renewal era what was gained and lost and what these histories might suggest for the city s future     Reciprocal Landscapes Jane Hutton, 2019-09-06 How are the far away invisible landscapes where materials come from related to the highly visible urban landscapes where those same materials are installed Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material Movements traces five everyday landscape construction materials fertilizer stone steel trees and wood from seminal public landscapes in New York City back to where they came from Drawing from archival documents photographs and field trips the author brings these two separate landscapes the material s source and the urban site where the material ended up together exploring themes of unequal ecological exchange labor and material flows Each chapter follows a single material s movement guano from Peru that landed in Central Park in the 1860s granite from Maine that paved Broadway in the 1890s structural steel from Pittsburgh that restructured Riverside Park in the 1930s London plane street trees grown on Rikers Island by incarcerated workers that were planted on Seventh Avenue north of Central Park in the 1950s and the popular tropical hardwood ipe from northern Brazil installed in the High Line in the 2000s Reciprocal Landscapes Stories of Material Movements considers the social political and ecological entanglements of material practice challenging readers to think of materials not as inert products but as continuous with land and the people that shape them and to reimagine forms of construction in solidarity with people other species and landscapes elsewhere Pittsburgh and the Appalachians Joseph L. Scarpaci, Kevin Joseph Patrick, 2006 The book assesses how Pittsburgh deindustrialization over the past decades has posed both opportunities and challenges for the city and surrounding tri state area Science John Michels (Journalist), 2004 A weekly record of scientific progress Cities in the Urban Age Robert A. Beauregard, 2018-03-19 We live in a self proclaimed Urban Age where we celebrate the city as the source of economic prosperity a nurturer of social and cultural diversity and a place primed for democracy We proclaim the city as the fertile ground from which progress will arise Without cities we tell ourselves human civilization would falter and decay In Cities in the Urban Age Robert A. Beauregard argues that this line of thinking is not only hyperbolic it is too celebratory by half For Beauregard the city is a cauldron for four haunting contradictions First cities are equally defined by both their wealth and their poverty Second cities are simultaneously environmentally destructive and yet promise sustainability Third cities encourage rule by political machines and oligarchies even as they are essentially democratic and at least nominally open to all And fourth city life promotes tolerance among disparate groups even as the friction among them often erupts into violence Beauregard offers no simple solutions or proposed remedies for these contradictions indeed he doesn t necessarily hold that they need to be resolved since they are generative of city life Without these four tensions cities wouldn t be cities Rather Beauregard argues that only by recognizing these ambiguities and contradictions can we even begin to understand our moral obligations as well as the clearest paths toward equality justice and peace in urban settings Historical Geography ,2008
