Kwaku Kyem, 2021-08-04 This book integrates spatial analysis into the study and management of conflicts and offers a model in conflict studies that incorporates theoretical explanations of conflict its causes and impacts with a geospatial strategy for intervening in disputes over allocation and use of natural resources connects theory and practice. Alongside a theoretical analysis of resource conflicts and an account of Participatory Mapping and PGIS development, this book provides a case study of GIS applications in conflict mediation. The book also lays out a practical and straightforward demonstration of PGIS applications in conflict management using a real world case study and traces the Participatory Mapping and PGIS movements' evolution. It compares PPGIS and PGIS practices and makes distinctions between traditional GIS applications and PGIS practice. The approach embodies the enhanced use of spatial information and media sets of tools for analyzing mapping and displaying spatial data and a platform for participatory discussions that enhances consensus building. The book therefore contributes to the search for novel approaches for managing current and emerging conflicts. With this book, resource managers, development practitioners, students and scholars of Participatory Mapping and PGIS applications and conflict studies will be equipped with the principles, skills and the tools they need to manage non-violent resource conflicts and keep the disputes from slipping into violence. The book will also be a valuable text for basic and advanced studies in Participatory Mapping and PGIS applications.

Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments, 2008-01-01

Faculty administrators and others in higher education face growing pressures to position their institutions' programs and courses in global markets and to prepare students for global work and citizenship. These pressures raise urgent questions: What might higher education look like in a globally networked world? Do traditional industrial models of learning suffice or what new visions for learning are emerging? What does it take to implement and maintain these visions? To address these questions, Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments brings together 25 educators from four continents who share their richly diverse visions for teaching and learning in a globally networked world. What unites these visions is that they break with traditional models of repackaging traditional institutionally bounded courses for online delivery in global markets. Instead, these educators build robust partnerships to design globally networked learning environments that connect students with peers, instructors and communities across traditional institutional, national and other boundaries to facilitate the kind of cross-boundary knowledge making that students as professionals and citizens will need to participate in the shaping of an emerging global order and to address the most pressing global problems we face. The book offers these visions as opportunities for faculty, program directors, administrators, international program experts, instructional designers, faculty development experts and others in higher education to work together to deliberate, develop and shape inspiring visions for globally networked learning and to become active participants in the globalization of higher education.

Communication and Development, 2002

Development and Advocacy Deborah Eade, 2002

Most major development NGOs dedicate significant resources to advocacy. Many also work to inform and shape public opinion, whether through advertising or fundraising or through education programmes. They argue that fundamental change is not achieved until the policy environment is right and cannot be sustained without a groundswell of support for reform. In recent years however advocacy work has come under increasing criticism NGOs are challenged on the grounds of legitimacy whom do they represent and to whom are they accountable effectiveness what practical impact does high level advocacy have on the lives of people living in poverty and who is to judge this role should NGOs try to combine funding and advocacy or do these demand different kinds of South North relationship strategy are NGOs too easily seduced by agencies like the World Bank or by the corporate sector When does constructive engagement with these powerful bodies turn into co option by them As international grassroots advocacy is becoming more vocal thanks to new communication technologies what is the appropriate role for Northern NGOs
