The Development of English Glassmaking, 1560-1640 Eleanor Smith Godfrey, 1975 Allegory, Space and the Material World in the Writings of Edmund Spenser Christopher Burlinson, 2006 An examination of the way in which the material world is depicted in The Faerie Queene This book provides a radical reassessment of Spenserian allegory in particular of The Faerie Queene in the light of contemporary historical and theoretical interests in space and material culture It explores the ambiguous and fluctuating attention to materiality objects and substance in the poetics of The Faerie Queene and discusses the way that Spenser's creation of allegorical meaning makes use of this materiality and transforms it It suggests further that a critical engagement with materiality which has been so important to the recent study of early modern drama must come in the case of allegorical narrative through a study of narrative and physical space and in this context it goes on to provide a reading of the spatial dimensions of the poem quests and battles forests castles and hovels and the spatial characteristics of Spenser's other writings The book reaffirms the need to place Spenser in his historical contexts philosophical and scientific military and architectural in early modern England Ireland and Europe but also provides a critical reassessment of this literary historicism Dr CHRISTOPHER BURLINSON is a Research Fellow in English at Emmanuel College Cambridge Derelict Stone Buildings of the Black Mountains Massif Christopher George Leslie Hodges, 2015-07-31 This study provides evidence of a widespread settlement pattern that existed in an upland area of the Eastern Massif of the Black Mountains in South East Wales now sparsely populated and that they can be dated from the late medieval and early post medieval periods respectively The Development of English Glassmaking, 1560-1640 Eleanor Smith Godfrey, 1975 The Age of Exuberance, 1550-1700 Michael A. monopoly petitioning in late Elizabethan and Jacobean England Drawing on a range of manuscript petitions it reveals the centrality of the issues of monopoly and corporatism for the politicisation of a range of subjects between 1590 1625 Both Elizabeth I and James I liberally granted monopolies and charters as a fiscal device Petitioning emerged as the main way through which subjects protested these intrusions on their trades and livelihoods Whilst this activity occurred throughout the realm it was especially pronounced in the city of London Members of London s livery companies bodies which held exclusive rights to trade petitioned for and against monopolies and charters Bloodsuckers of the Commonwealth offers a fresh perspective on political culture in this well studied period by arguing that economic policies generated conflicts contests and participation in a nascent public sphere The Tudor & Jacobean Country House Malcolm Airs,1995 This book explores how country houses were designed and built before the profession of architect had been established The motives behind the projects are examined as well as their organisation and finance Excavations in Poole, 1973-1983 Ian P.
