Evaluation of Global Companies in the Chemical Industry Matthias Hebben, 2021-04-27 Master's Thesis from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 2.0 University of Applied Sciences Northwestern Switzerland language English abstract This Master thesis explores the phenomenon of Digital Content Marketing DCM by evaluating if content marketing and its tools have a positive impact on global companies in the chemical industry Rapid globalization and the development of new markets at an increasingly global scale have made DCM more important However global companies are facing new challenges like new technological developments and trends and a changing consumer landscape that requires new marketing approaches Strategies are required to overcome these challenges adopt DCM techniques and use current techniques to gain competitive advantages However there are still companies that have not included digital content in their marketing strategy Others have difficulties making their marketing content unique and powerful The main issue is often measuring the effectiveness of one's digital content to determine whether DCM has a positive impact

The Digital Doctor: Hope, Hype, and Harm at the Dawn of Medicine's Computer Age Robert Wachter, 2015-04-10 The New York Times Science Bestseller from Robert Wachter Modern Healthcare's 1 Most Influential Physician Executive in the US While modern medicine produces miracles it also delivers care that is too often unsafe unreliable unsatisfying and impossibly expensive For the past few decades technology has been touted as the cure for all of healthcare's ills But medicine stubbornly resisted computerization until now Over the past five years thanks largely to billions of dollars in federal incentives healthcare has finally gone digital Yet once clinicians started using computers to actually deliver care it dawned on them that something was deeply wrong Why were doctors no longer making eye contact with their patients How could one of America's leading hospitals give a teenager a 39 fold overdose of a common antibiotic despite a state of the art computerized prescribing system How could a recruiting ad for physicians tout the absence of an electronic medical record as a major selling point Logically enough we've pinned the problems on clunky software flawed implementations absurd regulations and bad karma It was all of those things but it was also something far more complicated

And far more interesting Written with a rare combination of compelling stories and hard hitting analysis by one of the nation's most thoughtful physicians The Digital Doctor examines healthcare at the dawn of its computer age It tackles the hard questions from how technology is changing care at the bedside to whether government intervention has been useful or destructive And it does so with clarity insight humor and compassion Ultimately it is a hopeful story We need to recognize that computers in healthcare don't simply replace my doctor's scrawl with Helvetica 12 writes the author Dr Robert Wachter Instead they transform the work the people who do it and their relationships with each other and with patients Sure we should have thought of this sooner But it's not too late to get it right This riveting book offers the prescription for getting it right making it essential reading for everyone patient and provider alike who cares about our healthcare system Bidoun,2007 Building Broadband Yongsoo Kim,Tim John Charles Kelly,Siddhartha Raja,2010 Access to broadband connectivity is a country's passport to the global information society and knowledge economy the future However the adoption and use of broadband technology today remains extremely uneven and threatens to create a new digital divide At the end of 2009 countries in North America and the European Union accounted for more than 50 percent of the world's 1 billion fixed and mobile broadband subscriptions but South Asia and Sub Saharan Africa together accounted for less than 3 percent The experience with mobile telephony though shows the potential for growth in the information and communication technology sector in developing countries Almost 75 percent of the world's mobile telephone subscriptions are in low and middle income countries which have also promoted exciting innovations and realized significant economic development benefits In fact a growing number of countries are seeking to spur broadband development To aid governments as they design their own programs this volume offers examples and ideas from some of the most successful broadband markets particularly the Republic of Korea but also Finland France Japan Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States Building Broadband does not suggest a universal solution but rather provides a long list of policies and programs organized within a strategic framework that allows solutions tailored to country circumstances The essential building blocks identified are useful everywhere because they focus on improving incentives and the climate for private investment This is a policy that even countries with very limited resources will be able to exploit The Advertising Red Books ,2010 Chemical Engineering Progress ,2009 CIO ,2008-04
