Music Learning with Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) L. Steels,2015-11-24 Massive Open Online Courses known as MOOCs have arisen as the logical consequence of marrying long distance education with the web and social media MOOCs were confidently predicted by advanced thinkers decades ago They are undoubtedly here to stay and provide a valuable resource for learners and teachers alike This book focuses on music as a domain of knowledge and has three objectives to introduce the phenomenon of MOOCs to present ongoing research into making MOOCs more effective and better adapted to the needs of teachers and learners and finally to present the first steps towards social MOOCs which support the creation of learning communities in which interactions between learners go beyond correcting each other's assignments. Social MOOCs try to mimic settings for humanistic learning such as workshops, small choirs or groups participating in a Hackathon in which students aided by somebody acting as a tutor learn by solving problems and helping each other. The papers in this book all discuss steps towards social MOOCs: their foundational pedagogy, platforms to create learning communities, methods for assessment and social feedback and concrete experiments. These papers are organized into five sections: background, the role of feedback, platforms for learning communities, experiences with social MOOCs and looking backwards and looking forward. Technology is not a panacea for the enormous challenges facing today's educators and learners but this book will be of interest to all those striving to find more effective and humane learning opportunities for a larger group of students.

Formative Assessment and Feedback in Post-Digital Learning Environments Sam Elkington, Alastair Irons, 2025-03-26

This fundamental text provides cutting edge theory and practical insights into how formative assessment and feedback can be used to enhance student learning development through exploring an exciting range of case studies from experts in the field. Underpinned by relevant theory and real world advice spanning the global higher education sector, this book examines the importance of technology and digital education in shaping the use of assessment and feedback in higher education. Presented through international perspectives in assessment research and practice across a broad array of subject disciplines, the book focuses on the inclusion of empirical evidence as well as the contemporary issues and challenges currently facing formative assessment. The case studies bring to life strategies and approaches that utilise a combination of digital and material tools to promote a range of innovative formative assessment practices including facilitating dialogic formative assessment and supporting peer review and co-production of feedback artefacts. Each case study is divided into the context behind it, the strategy, practice, impact and key learning outcomes, presenting a series of opportunities for practitioners to consider and embed in their practice. Aimed at experienced and early career practitioners in higher education as well as third space practitioners such as learning and educational developers and designers, this text is ideal reading for educators who wish to see evolution in higher education using the lessons learned from utilising educational technology to focus on student learning in increasingly digital environments.
