Workplace Monitoring and Technology Jacek Woźniak, 2022-08-26 Workplace Monitoring and Technology aims to showcase results of research and explanatory theories that influence employees acceptance of the fact that work is monitored using ICT based monitoring tools Work monitoring understood as obtaining storing and reporting the results of collected observations has always been a managerial task Traditionally it was carried out by supervisors who while overseeing the work of employees would draw conclusions from their observations and implement corrective actions The use of information and communication technologies ICT to monitor the working employee and their performance has changed the methods of monitoring and the popularization of remote work has increased interest in searching for new monitoring systems using the full potential of new ICT solutions The new developments in ICT have caused smart monitoring systems and new solutions to evolve in electronic work monitoring based on the Internet of Things and Artificial Intelligence which enables nearly cost free monitoring However scientific knowledge about them is limited and above all so is managerial knowledge about the reception of these tools by employees while their misuse can cause considerable damage Presenting a broad overview of the current state of different areas of scientific knowledge regarding smart and electronic monitoring systems of work performance this book will be of relevance for academics within the fields of human resource management and performance management and for similar groups of researchers in psychology and sociology      Cognitive Robotics Hooman Samani, 2015-10-16 The kimono clad android robot that recently made its debut as the new greeter at the entrance of Tokyo's Mitsukoshi department store is just one example of the rapid advancements being made in the field of robotics Cognitive robotics is an approach to creating artificial intelligence in robots by enabling them to learn from and respond to real world      Robotics and Autonomous Systems. Innovations, Challenges, and Future Prospects Rajesh Kumar Mishra, Divyansh Mishra, Rekha Agarwal, 2025-03-12 Scientific Study from the year 2025 in the subject Computer Sciences Artificial Intelligence language English abstract The science of robotics deals with devices that carry out activities automatically or semi automatically using preset adaptive programming and algorithms These devices also referred to as robots are either operated by humans or fully controlled by computer programs and algorithms The construction design and programming of robots are all included in the broad idea of robotics These robots interact directly with the actual world and they are frequently used in place of people to carry out repetitive and boring jobs Robots can be grouped according to their size field of use or objective Robotics is only one aspect of automation It indicates that a procedure is carried out entirely or in part without the need for human intervention Instead only electrical or mechanical devices and pre programmed or adaptable computer programs are used to run the process The term predefined applications refers to algorithms where every operation is predetermined and carried out autonomously irrespective of any unanticipated environmental changes The ability of the algorithm to modify its behavior in response to modifications in the environment or process is known as adaptive automation Since robots are typically a component of automated systems robotics and automation go hand in hand Even if automation can exist without robots and robots can be utilized with little to no automation in some situations the two are like identical twins each with their own unique personality
