Depth Psychology And Vocation:

Depth Psychology and Vocation Luigi M. Rulla, 1971 Depth Psychology and Vocation, 1971 A Thread of Meaning Samuel H. Shaffer, 1999 Using the hermeneutic method this study presents a depth psychology of vocational life From a theoretical perspective it addresses the following question What is the relationship between psyche and vocation in the context of contemporary American work life Beginning with an introduction to contemporary work issues the study surveys the contributions of Freud Jung Erikson Gould Hillman and Moore to vocational theory It explores the development of calling in Western spiritual traditions It describes the cosmology of calling as revealed in Greco Roman mythology and Christian theology These perspectives provide the foundation for a depth psychological formulation of the vocational psyche Variations in vocational identity are based on differences in learning temperament and typology The study traces the evolution of life purpose during various developmental stages It draws on the research of Piaget Ainsworth Pearce Gardner Levinson and other developmentalists Sections on early childhood midlife and late adulthood suggest a thematic structure to the experience of vocation over the human life span Developmental theory serves as a background for an analysis of the role of public education in career development Based on these ideas the study offers a depth psychological theory of vocational counseling It delineates the roles of assessment Psychotherapy and psycho education It introduces several vocational counseling techniques including analytic recall dream work and active imagination The research integrates themes from science philosophy and psychology It explores the notion of emergence in physics and psychology drawing on common ideas of the transcendental origins of the material world Adopting a transpersonal perspective it defines human development as a process of self transcendence Taking a depth psychological approach it presents vocation as a vehicle for personal growth

From Career to Calling Suzanne Cremen, 2020-04-28 Finalist in the Australian Career Book Award 2020 supported by the Royal Society of Arts Oceania Finding and following an authentic calling challenges us to bridge both the intuitive soulful and the hard edged material dimensions of everyday life From Career to Calling A Depth Psychology Guide to Soul Making Work in Darkening Times opens new avenues for vocational exploration and career inquiry in an imaginative way This unique book draws on insights from the field of Jungian and archetypal psychology to reimagine our attitudes and approaches to work money vocational guidance and career development As people find themselves disillusioned with or disenfranchised from capitalist notions of work and career Suzanne Cremen's interdisciplinary approach illuminates how a creative meaningful and influential work life can emerge from attending to the archetypal basis of experience Interweaving elements of her own journey Cremen connects individual experience with the collective in an original way spotlighting depression in the legal profession marginalization of the feminine principle in work environments and how understanding the roots of our cultural complexes can spark personal callings which facilitate collective transformation Blending compelling real life stories with robust scholarly analysis and reflective activities this book will help practitioners to support individuals to develop a sense of their soul's calling and offer guidance on creating an authentic vocational life within the constraints of the contemporary era. Additionally, it will be invaluable to those in career transition re-discovering their purpose at the end of a career or commencing work life.

Formation and the Person Alessandro Manenti, Stefano Guarinelli, Hans Zollner, 2007

This book gathers the foundational concepts which characterise the approach to the person as human and as Christian which has been developed at the Institute of Psychology of the Pontifical Gregorian University during its more than 35 years of activity. The book directs these concepts towards further paths for investigation and puts them in dialogue with sister schools of depth psychology and with other areas of scholarship in particular philosophy and theology which are equally interested in exploring the human mystery. Hence the variety of authors: psychologists, philosophers and theologians brought together by a common interest in understanding and forming the human person in better ways. The reflections contained in this book gain concrete expression in an educative therapeutic practice and they review the nodal points which are part of every journey of growth and of psychotherapy: personal identity, interaction with the external world and the attainment of personal truth, inner imagination, desires and affections, conflicts. Instruments are offered to enable the formator and the psychotherapist to make the best possible use of the great energies which are made available by their application: how to identify the real problem, where to concentrate one's attention, what to listen to, how to handle the relationship, on what element to act in order to promote improvement, cure, what kind of change to propose. While accompaniment and psychotherapy are different procedures, they nevertheless have many similarities and points of contact. The dynamic relations and the factors involved in growth which this book describes are valid for both modalities of intervention and will be of interest to anyone who wishes to help others in a more enlightened educative dialogue.

The Concept of the Foreign Rebecca Saunders, 2003-01-01

The Concept of the Foreign investigates the diverse and consequential uses of the concept of the foreign, a formidable and hitherto untheorized force in everyday discourse and practice. This highly original work, whose experimental nature moves beyond traditional academic bounds, undertakes to theorize the meanings, deployments and consequences of foreignness, a term largely overlooked by academic debates. Innovative in format, the book comprises an introductory theoretical dialogue and seven essays, each authored by a scholar from a different discipline: anthropology, literary theory, psychology, philosophy, social work, history, and women's studies, who investigate how his/her disciplines engage and define the concept of the foreign. Drawing out literal and metaphorical meanings of foreignness, this wide-ranging volume offers much to scholars of postcolonial, gender, and cultural studies seeking new approaches to the study of alterity.

Vocational Interests in the Workplace Christopher Nye, James Rounds, 2019-05-29

Vocational Interests in the Workplace is an essential new work tying together past literature with contemporary research to present the most comprehensive coverage on vocational interests to date. With increasing recognition of the importance of vocational interests and their relevance to the workplace this book emphasizes the strong links between vocational interests and work behavior It proposes new models and approaches that facilitate thorough exploration of the implications of this relationship between interests and practice The authors drawing on knowledge and experience from a range of professional backgrounds cover essential topics including interest measurement personnel selection motivation and performance expertise meaningful work effects of a global business environment diversity and the ongoing development of interests through adulthood to retirement Endorsed by the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology board this book is a valuable resource for researchers professionals and educators in the fields of human resources organizational behaviour and industrial or organizational psychology Fundamentals of Vocational Psychology Charles Hurlbut Griffitts,1924 This book is designed primarily to serve as a textbook for classes in vocational psychology In the selection and presentation of material I have had in mind the fundamental problems of a psychological nature which confront both the employment manager and the vocational counselor Although the former is chiefly concerned with the problem of selecting individuals fitted for given kinds of work and the latter with helping individuals select the occupations for which they are best fitted their main problems are essentially the same Of equal importance to both are the ways in which individuals differ and the methods of detecting or measuring these differences A knowledge of the cause of such differences is also of value in dealing with many practical problems in either line of work PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved The Pacific Journal of Theology,1989 Anthropology of the Christian Vocation Luigi M. Rulla,Joyce Ridick,Franco Imoda,1986 What are the psychological and social motivations that influence people to enter the priestly or religious life Are these motivations easily changed or do they tend to persist as they were What dispositions help people to persevere in their vocation or push them towards leaving The first volume of the present study stressing the indispensable action of God s grace develops an anthropology of the Christian vocation that is a Christian vision of what the human person is and can become in answering God s call The based in philosophical and theological anthropology of the Christian vocation is earlier psyco social theory of vocation are made more explicit On these bases an anthropology of vocation is built up which respects tradition and at the same time contains new and original ideas like the notion of three dimensions or three kinds of habitual dispositions in the Christian person as he travels on the journey of vocation The influence of these three dimensions on the person s ability to assimilate and internalize the value s of Christ is explored The limits on human freedom which are to be distinguished from psychopathology are discussed Vatican II René Latourelle,1989 Industrial Arts & Vocational Education ,1917 Adult Learning in Vocational Education David Little,Jean McAllister,Robert Priebe,1991 Prepared for unit EEE700 offered by the Faculty of Education in Deakin University s Open Campus Program Anthropology of the Christian Vocation Luigi M. Rulla,Joyce Ridick,Franco Imoda,1986 This book is the product of more than twenty years of research on the anthropology of the Christian vocation This research was carried out by following over a period of several years some hundreds of candidates to the priesthood or the religious life and also lay college students in the USA This is the second volume of an interdisciplinary study As such it has its roots in both philosophy and theology as explained in the first volume The more important points of its philosophical and theological foundation find repeated and convergent confirmation in the research findings and predictions both statistical and existential presented in this second volume In this book various aspects of the Christian vocation are analyzed for example the three dimensions or habitual dispositions underlying this vocation the intrapsychic factors which seem important for the beginning of vocation perseverance growth in the internalization or assimilation of vocational values vocational crises the influence of formation on the potentiality of internalization and the influence of different vocational environments on this potentiality Each aspects of vocation analyzed in this book is followed by pastoral applications often related to the teachings of the Second Vatican Council Entering and Leaving Vocation Luigi M. Rulla, Joyce Ridick, Franco Imoda, 1976 In this research the authors find universal patterns in those who enter religious life and in those who will later leave The Career Development Quarterly ,2002 Studies in Formative Spirituality ,1985 The Month ,1980
