

Der Name Der Rose

John Caughie, Kevin Rockett

Der Name Der Rose:

Der Name der Rose Umberto Eco, 1986 Da er in den Mauern der prächtigen Benediktinerabtei an den Hängen des Apennin das Echo eines verschollenen Lachens hören würde das hell und klassisch herber klingt aus der Antike damit hat der englische Franziskaner nach William von Baskerville nicht gerechnet Zusammen mit Adson von Melk seinem etwas tumulen- jugendlichen Adlatus ist er in einer höchst delikaten politischen Mission unterwegs Doch in den sieben Tagen ihres Aufenthalts werden die beiden mit kriminellen Ereignissen und drastischen Versuchungen konfrontiert Ein Mönch ist im Schweineblutbottich ertrunken ein anderer aus dem Fenster gesprungen ein dritter wird tot im Badehaus gefunden Aber nicht umsonst stand William lange Jahre im Dienste der heiligen Inquisition Das Untersuchungsfieber packt ihn Er sammelt Indizien entziffert magische Zeichen entschlüsselt Manuskripte und dringt immer tiefer in ein geheimnisvolles Labyrinth vor bevor das der blinde Seher Jorge von Burgos wacht

History and the Contemporary Novel David Cowart, 1989 Cowart presents a study of international historical fiction since World War II with reflections on the affinities between historical and fictional narrative analysis of the basic modes of historical fiction and readings of a number of historical novels including John Barth's The Sot-Weed Factor Marguerite Yourcenar's Memoirs of Hadrian Russell Hoban's Riddley Walker Margaret Atwood's The Handmaid's Tale Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa's The Leopard D.M. Thomas's The White Hotel William Faulkner's Go Down Moses and Umberto Eco's The Name of the Rose He proposes recognizing four modes of the historical novel the past as a distant mirror of the present fictions whose authors seek to pinpoint the precise historical moment when the modern age or some prominent feature of it came into existence fictions whose authors aspire purely or largely to historical verisimilitude and fictions whose authors reverse history to contemplate utopia and dystopia in the future Thus historical fiction can be organized under the rubrics The Distant Mirror The Turning Point The Way It Was and The Way It Will Be This fourfold schema and his focus on postwar novels set Cowart's work apart from previous studies which have not devoted adequate space to the contemporary historical novel Cowart argues that postwar historical fiction merits more extensive treatment because it is the product of an age unique in the annals of history an age in which history itself may end

Medieval German Voices in the 21st Century, 2021-11-08 As witnessed by a tremendous upsurge in medieval research academic meetings innovative interpretive approaches enrolment numbers and public interest

Medieval Studies are proving once again to be a vibrant field of investigations both inside and outside of academia. Nevertheless, there is a tendency among colleagues and administrators in the field of Germanistik/German Studies to exclude the earlier period as an exotic and irrelevant subject matter. The contributors to this volume, all of whom teach at North American universities, make a strong case for the paradigmatic function of medieval German literature for the general field of Germanistik and argue that many of the most recent changes in our discipline related to the German Studies paradigm have been foreshadowed by Medieval Studies, where interdisciplinarity, comparative approaches, the consideration of Mentalitätsgeschichte, theology, history, art history, even gender studies, and the history of everyday life have often constituted the conditio sine qua non. Some of the authors in this volume argue for the relevance of medieval German literature by investigating concrete cases taken from the Middle Ages; others show how modern German literature has been deeply influenced by medieval texts. The purpose of this volume is not to privilege medieval literature over modern literature but instead to reclaim the premodern period as an important and relevant field of investigation within contemporary German Studies.

Medievalism in Europe Leslie J. Workman, 1994. Concentrating on Europe, this volume's sixteen essays discuss different forms of medievalism in Germany, France, Italy, Spain, and Serbia. Medievalism, the whole spectrum of post-medieval response to the Middle Ages, is now accepted as a vital key to the understanding of Western culture and society from 1500 to the present, pervading every aspect of our time from the popular and artistic to the scholarly. Studies in Medievalism, now published annually, is the one series to provide a regular forum for discussion of medievalism. This volume is devoted to medievalism in Europe, excluding England, the subject of Volume IV, 1992. Contributors from Europe and America consider medievalism in Germany, Italy, France, Spain, and Serbia over a wide range of topics from eighteenth-century French politics and nineteenth-century German nationalism to contemporary Italian film.

Differences, Deceits and Desires Mirna Cicioni, Nicoletta Di Ciolla, 2008. Italian crime fiction, known as gialli in Italy, has developed from a popular genre to a fully fledged literary genre, and in the past thirty years it has gradually become the focus of growing interest from literary critics as well as the reading public. This collection of twelve essays is the first one in English to deal exclusively with Italian crime fiction. The essays are scholarly yet accessible contributions to the growing research in this field. They analyze texts by well-known authors such as Umberto Eco, Leonardo Sciascia, and Andrea Camilleri, as well as works by younger writers. They bring together four of the most significant strands of Italian gialli: the way gialli develop or subvert the tradition and conventions of the crime genre; regional specificity within Italian crime fiction; gialli by and about women, lesbians, and gay men; and representations of Italy in gialli written by English-speaking writers.

Approaches to Communication Susan Petrilli, 2008. The framework developed by Thomas A. Sebeok in his global semiotics is currently the most useful for investigating the nature and function of representation in human systems. The capacity to represent immediate reality is not unique to human animals but the capacity to frame an indefinite number of possible worlds is unique to humans This unique aspect of representational capacity in humans has led to true culture requiring a way to represent all the subtleties of language in contrast to nonhuman culture It is on this level that nonverbal and verbal form assemblages blend together functionally and systematically from the Preface by Marcel Danesi This book proposes approaches to communication from different viewpoints Their common objective is to contribute to what can be designated as Global Communication Studies In our world communication is all pervasive This calls for the broadest possible vision of the global sign network and an understanding of the sense of the role each of us must play in it Consequently the problem of communication is closely connected to the problem of responsibility The book is dedicated to the late Thomas A Sebeok
