This essay sheds light on how to make money as a full time college student or graduate student with no work experience and also elucidates why the gig economy has become the new job market paradigm. Earning revenue as a full time college student, graduate student or doctoral student without any work experience is easier today in the digital era than ever before. The advent of social media and mobile applications has rendered it much easier for students to generate income either by building their own lucrative brands or by working as free lancers in the gig economy. Not having work experience may preclude you from working for a traditional employer over more credential and experienced candidates but will not prevent you from being able to make money even if you lack transportation since most self employed jobs can be fully completed remotely. The advent of social media platforms has rendered it easier than ever before in the digital era for students to monetize their passions and hobbies. There are ample ways in which students can begin generating passive income. Platforms such as YouTube, Twitch, Patreon, Amazon Kindle, Blogger, Udemy and Medium encourage creativity and allow content creators to parlay their passions and hobbies into lucrative opportunities for generating passive income streams. Being a content creator can truly be the utmost liberating and fulfilling job since it allows you to have full purview over your work schedule and business growth strategies. Monetizing your passions and hobbies can start with something as simple as producing videos and broadcasting live streams about your hobbies. Moreover, being a prolific content creator can eventually lend itself to other profitable passive income generating opportunities you would have never imagined possible as your brand grows and as you gain more clout as an influencer of your niche. Beyond the aforementioned passive income job opportunities, students that are more inclined to pursue free lance work instead of earmarking their time into building their own brands can utilize mobile application such as Rover, Lift, Uber Eats, Door Dash, Task Rabbit and Gig Walker. Blake (2018) to find immediate job opportunities. These aforementioned applications not only allows students to avail themselves of job opportunities they can cherry pick but also allow them to find work at any given time that coincides with their busy schedules. These mobile application typically provide immediate payment to the independent contractor once the job has been completed. Students in the digital era have an easier time finding temporary jobs than their predecessor generations had since mobile applications can now connect students looking for work to clients in an eminently expeditious manner. Students are utilizing mobile applications to avail themselves of rudimentary job opportunities that entail jobs such as delivering packaging, driving around passengers, walking dogs, moving furniture and completing odd jobs. Although these job opportunities may be short lived potentially allowing you to complete over ten jobs in a day if you hustle, students have plenty of opportunities to find work instantaneously through the usage of mobile applications since new job openings are abundant and clients utilizing these applications are not selective who they hire as long the worker has the competent and basic skill sets need to complete these mostly rudimentary jobs. Moreover, students looking for longer term work opportunities can submit proposals on freelancer websites such as Fiverr and Upwork to secure more remote computer based work such as editing videos writing research articles and managing marketing campaigns The gig economy is becoming the new paradigm of the job market By utilizing independent contracts instead of full time employee companies can minimize their labor costs can mitigate hiring risks and can minimize their liabilities
