Crisis In Teaching:

Crisis in Teaching Lois Weis, Philip G. Altbach, Slaughter, Gail P. Kelly, Hugh G. Petrie, 1989-01-01 There is a real need for a clear analysis and investigation of what the crisis in teaching actually is By exploring the definition of the teaching crisis investigating the evidence for its existence and reforms proposed to solve it and studying the possible effects of proposed reforms the authors of Crisis in Teaching address this need Their work constitutes one of the first sustained and critical analyses of teachers and teaching in the contemporary situation The authors among the nation's leading critical thinkers in the field of education reflect a variety of perspectives as they attempt to unravel the current rhetoric of crisis and question solutions that are in effect too often simplistic and superficial in their analyses and proposals

Who's Teaching Your Children? Vivian Troen, Katherine C. Boles, 2008-10-01 Many of the problems afflicting American education are the result of a critical shortage of qualified teachers in the classrooms The teacher crisis is surprisingly resistant to current reforms and is getting worse This important book reveals the causes underlying the crisis and offers concrete affordable proposals for effective reform Vivian Troen and Katherine Boles two experienced classroom teachers and education consultants argue that because teachers are recruited from a pool of underqualified candidates given inadequate preparation and dropped into a culture of isolation without mentoring support or incentives for excellence they are programmed to fail Half quit within their first five years Troen and Boles offer an alternative a model of reform they call the Millennium School which changes the way teachers work and improves the quality of their teaching When teaching becomes a real profession they contend more academically able people will be drawn into it colleges will be forced to improve the quality of their education and better prepared teachers will enter the classroom and improve the profession

Beyond the Commission Reports Linda Darling-Hammond, Rand Corporation, 1984 This report treats the current status of the teaching profession at a time when renewed efforts to improve the quality of American education are occurring at the federal state and local levels The report demonstrates that dramatic changes in our nation's teaching force will soon lead to serious shortages of qualified teachers unless policies that restructure the teaching profession are pursued The report analyzes recent data indicating changes in the recruitment and retention patterns of the American teaching force in the quality of teachers and in the attractiveness of teaching as a profession The author concludes that if we are serious about improving the quality of education we will have to make more than marginal changes in the attractiveness of the teaching profession The search for excellence as it is being conducted in most states will not solve the problem Fundamental reform of the teaching profession will be required
