McDonald, 1996 Designed for college writing teachers who are faced with teaching composition for the first time or re examining their teaching goals and methods The Allyn Bacon Sourcebook for College Writing Teachers is a collection of writings on important theories and pedagogies in composition studies The selections discuss a range of theories and approaches to teaching writing and present readers with a number of options for instruction rather than a single way to teach Written by some of today's foremost scholars and teachers the articles range from discussing how to integrate critical thinking and reading into writing instruction to methods for responding to and evaluating student writing to dealing with grammar and editing For those who teach writing

Writing Inventions Scott Lloyd DeWitt, 2001-07-26 A collection of instructional stories research and classroom applications for teachers who use computers in their writing instruction On Literacy and Its Teaching Gail E. Hawisher, Anna O. Soter, 1990-07-05 This book recognizes and embraces the complexities of modern English teaching It presents English teachers and teacher educators with a critical view of current professional issues and concerns in the belief that these groups need and want to participate in curricular and professional reform movements that affect them and their students The book examines such issues as the interconnectedness of the study of language literature and composition curricular problems in language instruction in teacher education the relationship between our traditional notions of literature study and our emerging view of literacy in the contemporary information age and the ways in which current theory and research can be translated into innovative designs for the teaching of written composition On Literacy and Its Teaching is a powerful response to the current challenge for innovation and change in English teacher education With its broad scope it provides a balanced overview and timely analysis of the field of English Education Literacy David Wray, 2004 This four volume collection reprints key debates about exactly what it means to be literate and how literacy can best be taught Rather than centering on the emotional reaction of mass media debates this set focuses on research findings into processes and pedagogy The themes covered include Literacy its nature and its teaching Reading processes and teaching Writing processes and teaching and New Literacies the impact of technologies Interactions in the Computer-supported Writing Classroom Nancy S. Tucker, 1995 Fifth ACM Conference on Hypertext Proceedings, Seattle, Washington, U.S.A., November 14-18, 1993, 1993 Journal of Business and Technical Communication, 1992 Integrating Hypertextual Subjects Robert Samuels, 2006 This book examines how one can teach composition with computers while reflecting critically on the ways technology affects student literacies faculty labor issues and the educational environment at contemporary universities

By articulating concerns regarding pedagogy and postmodern academic institutions the book develops an economic political and cultural account of the field of computers and composition Of special importance is the analysis of how the employment of new technologies in writing classes affects student writing faculty research pedagogical innovations and the employment practices of research universities By articulating a technological and holistic conception of composition studies through the integration of process oriented expressivist social constructivist and current traditional models of writing pedagogies this volume shows teachers how they can both use and critique digital technologies in college writing courses Furthermore in employing a multimedia approach to the study of computers and composition the book suggests ways of helping students to author their own new media in writing courses BOOK JACKET Computers and Community Carolyn Handa,1990 These exciting and moving reports of a revolutionary composition pedagogy develop a common theme the most profound changes wrought by computers in the composition classroom are social political and pedagogical not technological Harbrace College Handbook Donahue,Mary Lee Donahue,1994 A Rhetoric of Electronic Communities Tharon W. Howard,1997-04-10 This book is a study of the power to monitor what is said authorize who may speak and even to determine what is and is not knowable within the context of electronic discourse communities It tests the claim that the Internet and other wide area networking systems promote participatory democracies and may serve as agencies for communal change by enabling the formation of resisting subjectivities CALICO Journal ,1999 Proceedings, NECC '93 Thomas A. Brubaker,1993 Learner Factors/teacher Factors Jerry Zutell,1991 Contains Program for 1990 National Reading Conference Miami Florida November 27 December 1 1990 Facilitating Students' Collaborative Writing: Issues and Recommendations Bruce W. Speck,2002-05-07 Collaboration is interwoven in the writing process in both obvious and subtle ways from a writer using the language that he or she inherited to referring to the works of other writers both explicitly and implicitly to writing together with a colleague In this book the author explains that collaborative writing can be a useful pedagogical tool professors can use to help students actively learn about the subject matter and about themselves Writing Analytically David Rosenwasser,Jill Stephen,2000
