Critically Constituting Organization Advances In Organization Studies 5:

The Spatial Construction of Organization Tor Hernes, 2004-01-01 An important challenge to organization theory is to search for constructs that explain how contexts for work emerge evolve persist and change This book explores the concept of space as representing a wide variety of contexts Organization as a process as distinguished from organization as an entity is seen as the construction of space where space is the outcome of human action and interaction as well as providing a context for actions and interaction The book shows how different forms of space lie at the base of a number of developments in organization theory It then takes the step to show how contemporary developments in social science represented by works by writers such as Giddens Luhmann Latour and Bourdieu can be used to establish a dynamic understanding of organization as space Insights from these discussions are used to establish a unique and coherent way of understanding complexities of modern organization Academy of Management Annual Meeting Academy of Management, 2001 Organizations Marc Maurice, Arndt Sorge, 2000 The globalization of economic activities has given rise to an interest in the relations between such tendencies the nature of societies and the nature of various actors within and cross cutting societies This book serves to systematize the approach and react to newly arising issues It brings together proponents sympathizers and critics of societal analysis and seeks to enter new fields The message stressed and demonstrated by the editors and authors is that the societal space of social economic and political interdependencies is not being obliterated but complexified and therefore a topical and explanatory framework Writing Organization Carl Rhodes, 2001-01-01 Carl Rhodes examines the implicit power of writing and authorship that is at play when people and organisations are represented in research To explore this the book reports a research project in the area of organisational storytelling that investigates how people in one organisation used stories to represent their own learning experiences from the implementation of a quality management program This research is written in three principal genres autobiography ethnography and a fictional short story These re presentational strategies are reviewed to examine how different genres effect authority in different ways Drawing extensively on the work of Mikhail Bakhtin and on writers associated with postmodernism and poststructuralism the book offers a challenging discussion of what organisational research might be when the notion of the equivalence of reality and The End of the 'Asian Model'? Holger Henke, Ian Boxill, 2000 With the economic representation is radically questioned crisis in Asia the development model on which the phenomenal earlier success of several countries in the region was built requires increasing scrutiny This work questions the validity of the notion that there is a universally applicable model of industrialization common to Asian countries A number of senior and highly regarded Asia specialists take a look at the various development experiences of several Asian countries and evaluate their experiences in a comparative perspective

Narratives We Organize by Barbara Czarniawska-Joerges, Pasquale Gagliardi, 2003 Topics covered by this title include structuralist approaches to narrative analysis poststructural approaches to narrative genre analysis and narrating ourselves

National Capitalisms, Global Competition, and Economic Performance Sigrid Quack, Glenn Morgan, Richard Whitley, 2000 Why are some firms successful on global markets whilst others are not In this collection of papers a group of distinguished international researchers examine the inter relationship between national context firm performance and global competitiveness In a series of empirical studies covering major industries such as banking telecommunications construction automobiles and airlines in a number of European countries Great Britain France Germany Holland Finland Slovenia the studies show how distinctive patterns of firm competences and capabilities arise from national contexts These influence the way in which firms perform in response to changing technologies and competitive pressures Thus the impact of the globalisation of economic activity may be to reinforce existing national differences in firm performance rather than producing a homogenisation and standardisation This book will be of interest to researchers in business and management sociology economics and political science for its comparative organizational approach to problems of economic performance
