Criticism On The Color Line Desegregating American Literary Studies:

Criticism and the Color Line Henry B. Wonham, 1996 This volume celebrates the hybridity of American literary culture Over the last decade and more American literary studies have tended with only a few rare and recent exceptions to look at separate strands of literary history and tradition African American or white male or female lesbian or gay or straight Every contributor to this collection no matter how widely varied the point of view in other ways examines the dynamic relationship between mainstream and African American expressive traditions in American culture Engaging the work of writers from Edgar Allan Poe and Frederick Douglass to William Styron and Ernest Gaines they concur in treating the color line as a site of cultural mutation where American identities are produced not diluted through acts of cultural exchange The book draws new research into the rich contentious yet thoroughly pluralistic cultural equation that is American literature Toni Morrison's ground breaking lecture Unspeaking Things Unspoken The Afro American Presence in American Literature opens the book which then moves on to provocative essays by scholars who have heeded her call for a rethinking of American literary tradition black and white

The Cambridge History of Literary Criticism: Volume 9, Twentieth-Century Historical, Philosophical and Psychological Perspectives George Alexander Kennedy, Christa Knellwolf, 1989 This ninth volume in The Cambridge History of Literary Criticism presents a wide ranging survey of developments in literary criticism and theory during the last century Drawing on the combined expertise of a large team of specialist scholars it offers an authoritative account of the various movements of thought that have made the late twentieth century such a richly productive period in the history of criticism The aim has been to cover developments which have had greatest impact on the academic study of literature along with background chapters that place those movements in a broader intellectual national and socio cultural perspective In comparison with Volumes Seven and Eight also devoted to twentieth century developments there is marked emphasis on the rethinking of historical and philosophical approaches which have emerged especially during the past two decades as among the most challenging areas of debate

A Companion to Modernist Literature and Culture David Bradshaw, Kevin J. H. Dettmar, 2008-04-15 The Companion combines a broad grounding in the essential texts and contexts of the modernist movement with the unique insights of scholars whose careers have been devoted to the study of modernism An essential resource for students and teachers of modernist literature and culture Broad in scope and comprehensive in coverage Includes more than 60 contributions from some of the most distinguished modernist scholars on both sides of the Atlantic Brings together entries on elements of modernist culture contemporary intellectual and aesthetic movements and all the genres of modernist writing and art Features 25 essays on the signal texts of modernist literature from James Joyce's Ulysses to Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God Pays close attention to both British and American modernism

Postcolonial Theory and the United States Amritjit Singh, Peter Schmidt, 2000-08-08 At the beginning of the twenty first century the world may be in a transnational moment Indeed we are increasingly aware of the ways in which local and national narratives in literature and elsewhere cannot be conceived apart from a radically new sense of shared human histories and global interdependence To think transnationally about literature history and culture requires a study of the evolution of hybrid identities within nation states and diasporic identities across national boundaries This book collects nineteen essays written in the 1990s Displaying both historical depth and theoretical finesse as they attempt close and lively readings they are accessible well focused resources for college and university students and their teachers Included are more than one discussion of each literary tradition associated with major racial and ethnic communities Such a gathering of diverse complementary and often competing viewpoints provides a good introduction to the cultural differences and commonalities that comprise the United States today from back cover

Editing the Harlem Renaissance Joshua M. Murray,Ross K. Tangedal,2021-05-01 In his introduction to the foundational 1925 text The New Negro Alain Locke described the Old Negro as a creature of moral debate and historical controversy necessitating a metamorphosis into a literary art that embraced modernism and left sentimentalism behind This was the underlying theoretical background that contributed to the flowering of African American culture and art that would come to be called the Harlem Renaissance While the popular period has received much scholarly attention the significance of editors and editing in the Harlem Renaissance remains woefully understudied Editing the Harlem Renaissance foregrounds an in depth exhaustive approach to relevant editing and editorial issues exploring not only those figures of the Harlem Renaissance who edited in professional capacities but also those authors who employed editorial practices during the writing process and those texts that have been discovered and or edited by others in the decades following the Harlem Renaissance Editing the Harlem Renaissance considers developmental editing textual self fashioning textual editing documentary editing and bibliography Chapters utilize methodologies of authorial intention copy text manuscript transcription critical edition building and anthology creation Together these chapters provide readers with a new way of viewing the artistic production of one of the United States most important literary movements

Ethnicity and Cultural Authority Daniel G. Williams,2005-12-08 Longlisted for the Wales Book of the Year 2007 Writing in 1903 W E B Du Bois suggested that the goal for the African American was to be a co worker in the kingdom of culture He was evoking culture as a solution to the divisions within society thereby adopting in a very different context an idea that had been influentially expressed by Matthew Arnold in the 1860s Du Bois questioned the assumed universality of this concept by asking who ultimately is allowed into the kingdom of culture How does one come to speak from a position of cultural authority This book adopts a transatlantic approach to explore these questions It centres on four Victorian men of letters Matthew Arnold William Dean Howells W B Yeats and W E B Du Bois who drew on notions of ethnicity as a basis from which to assert their cultural authority In comparative close readings of these figures Daniel Williams addresses several key areas of contemporary literary and cultural debate The book questions the notion of the West as it appears and re appears in the formulations of postcolonial theory challenges the widespread tendency to divide nationalism into civic and ethnic forms and forces its readers to reconsider what they mean when they talk about culture identity and national literature Key Features Offers a substantial innovative intervention in transatlantic debates over race and ethnicity Uses 4 intriguing authors to explore issues of national identity racial purity and the use of literature as a marker of cultural capital A unique focus on Celtic identity in a transatlantic context Sets up a dialogue between writers who believe in national identity and those who believe in cultural distinctiveness 'Writing Race' in

Chesnutt Henry B. Wonham,1998 N A Racial Thinking in the United States Paul R. Spickard,G. Reginald Daniel,2004 Racial Thinking in the United States is a comprehensive reassessment of the ideas that Americans have had about race This useful book draws on the skills and perspectives of nine scholars from the fields of history sociology theology American studies and ethnic studies In thirteen carefully crafted essays they tell the history of the American system of racial domination and of twentieth century challenges to that racial hierarchy from monoracial movements to the multiracial movement This collection begins with an introduction to how Americans have thought about race ethnicity and colonialism The first section of the book describes the founding of racial thinking in the United States along the racial binary of Black and White and compares that system to the quite different system that developed in Jamaica Section two describes anomalies in the racial binary such as the experiences of people of mixed race and of states such as Texas California and Hawaii where large groups of non Black and White racial groups co exist Part three analyzes five monoracial challenges to racial hierarchy the Civil Rights and Black Power movements the Chicana o movement the Asian Ame "Decrowning" Whiteness David S. The "New Negro" in the Old World Lena Ahlin,2006 This book investigates the relationship between the New Negro moment of the early twentieth century America and the Old World of Europe as represented in James Weldon Johnson s The Autobiography of an Ex Colored Man 1912 Jessie Fauset s There Is Confusion 1924 and Nella Larsen s Quicksand 1928 The episodes set in Europe form a lens through which the role of the African American in Western civilization can be studied The African American artist protagonists are seen as cultural intermediaries who bridge Euro American and African American culture national and folk culture high and low culture This study suggests that in the novels of Johnson Fauset and Larsen the trope of performance based on double consciousness is used to critique the notions of race and culture whereby conceptions of racial essentialism and cultural authenticity are questioned The novels themselves are also considered as performative acts that helped form the concept of a New Negro in the 1920s BOOK JACKET Dilution Anxiety and the Black Phallus Margo Natalie Crawford, 2008 After the Black is Beautiful movement of the 1960s black body politics have been overdetermined by both the familiar fetishism of light skin as well as the counter fetishism of dark skin Moving beyond the longstanding focus on the tragic mulatta and making room for the study of the fetishism of both light skinned and dark skinned blackness Margo Natalie Crawford analyzes depictions of colorism in the work of Gertrude Stein Wallace Thurman William Faulkner Black Arts poets James Baldwin Toni Morrison and John Edgar Wideman In Dilution Anxiety and the Black Phallus Crawford adds images of skin color dilution as a type of castration to the field of race and psychoanalysis An undercurrent of light skinned blackness as a type of castration emerges within an ongoing story about the feminizing of light skin and the masculinizing of dark skin Crawford confronts the web of beautified and eroticized brands and scars created by colorism crisscrossing race gender and sexuality The depiction of the horror of these aestheticized brands and scars begins in the white authored and black authored modernist literature examined in the first chapters A call for the end of the ongoing branding emerges with sheer force in the post Black movement novels examined in the final chapters Colby Quarterly, 1998
