Crossing Boundaries Postmodern Travel Literature:

Crossing Boundaries A. Russell, 2001-02-13 Crossing Boundaries examines experimental novels about travel by William Gaddis and Thomas Pynchon as precursors of innovative contemporary travel narratives represented by the work of authors such as Bruce Chatwin, William Least Heat Moon and William T Vollmann among others. While these texts may be read as cultural criticism functioning as a collective portrait of the world at a time when global space seems exhausted, dominated by multinational corporations and threatened with ecological devastation, they also serve as new Waldens. Crossing Boundaries Alison Frances Russell, 1993

Travel Narrative and the Ends of Modernity Stacy Burton, 2013-11-25 Over the past century, narratives of travel changed in response to modernist and postmodernist literary innovation. World wars, the demise of European empires, and the effect of new technologies and media on travel experience. Yet existing critical studies have not examined fully how the genre changes or theorized why. This study investigates the evolution of Anglophone travel narrative from the 1920s to the present, addressing the work of canonical authors such as T. E. Lawrence, W. H. Auden, and Rebecca West, best sellers by Peter Fleming and H. V. Morton, and texts by Colin Thubron, Andrew X. Pham, Rosemary Mahoney, and others. It argues that the genre's most important transformation lies in its reinvention as a means of narrating the subjective experience of violence, cultural upheaval, and decline. It will interest scholars and students of travel writing, modernism, and postmodernism, English and American literature, and the history and sociology of travel.

Mexican Travel Writing Thea Pitman, 2008 This book is a detailed study of salient examples of Mexican travel writing from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. While scholars have often explored the close relationship between European or North American travel writing and the discourse of imperialism, little has been written on how postcolonial subjects might relate to the genre. This study first traces the development of a travel writing tradition based closely on European imperialist models in mid-nineteenth century Mexico. It then goes on to analyse how the narrative techniques of postmodernism and the political agenda of postcolonialism might combine to help challenge the genre's imperialist tendencies in late twentieth century works of travel writing, focusing in particular on works by writers Juan Villoro, Hector Perea, and Fernando Solana Olivares.

Travel and Dislocation in Contemporary American Fiction Aliki Varvogli, 2012-03-12 This book offers a critical study and analysis of American fiction at the beginning of the twenty-first century. It focuses on novels that go outward, literally and metaphorically, and it concentrates on narratives that take place mainly away from the US's geographical borders. Varvogli draws on current theories of travel, globalization, and post-national studies and proposes a dynamic model that will enable scholars to approach contemporary American fiction and assess recent changes and continuities. Concentrating on work by Philip Caputo, Dave Eggers, Norman Rush, and Russell Banks, the book proposes that American literature's engagement with Africa has shifted and needs to be approached using new methodologies. Novels by Amy Tan, Garrison Keillor, Jonathan Safran Foer, and Dave Eggers are examined in the context of travel and globalization, and works by Chang-rae Lee, Ethan Canin,

Dinaw Mengestu and Jhumpa Lahiri are used as examples of the changing face of the American immigrant novel and the changing meaning of national belonging

Travel Writing and Re-Enactment Lucas Tromly, 2023-09-07 Travel Writing and Re Enactment Echotourism explores the popular subgenre of travel narratives that re enact historically prominent journeys Drawing on philosopher Walter Benjamin this monograph reads such re enactments as quests for aura in which travellers seek to capture a sense of distinction and historical profundity Travel Writing and Re Enactment frames the re enactment of past journeys in a number of contexts including Benjamin s writing on mechanical reproduction Judith Butler s work on gender performance and postmodern parody Echotourist journeys are surprisingly contingent and precarious and force travellers to navigate historical changes involving empire gender and travel practice in densely performative ways Through close readings of contemporary travel narratives this monograph considers the legacies of Lord Byron Charles Darwin Graham Greene Mary Kingsley and Ernest Shackleton among others Travel Writing and Re Enactment examines the way literary re enactment expresses and sometimes confounds the desire to find meaning through travel in the contemporary world

A Century of Travels in China Douglas Kerr, Julia Kuehn, 2007-05-01 Writings of travelers have shaped ideas about an evolving China while preconceived ideas about China also shaped the way they saw the country A Century of Travels in China explores the impressions of these writers on various themes from Chinese cities and landscapes to the work of Europeans abroad From the time of the first Opium War to the declaration of the People s Republic China s history has been one of extraordinary change and stubborn continuities At the same time the country has beguiled scared and puzzled people in the West The Victorian public admired and imitated Chinese fashions in furniture and design gardens and clothing while maintaining a generally negative idea of the Chinese empire as pagan backward and cruel In the first half of the twentieth century the fascination continued Most foreigners were aware that revolutionary changes were taking place in Chinese politics and society yet most still knew very little about the country But what about those few people from the English speaking world who had first hand experience of the place What did they have to say about the real China To answer this question we have to turn to the travel accounts and memoirs of people who went to see for themselves during China s most traumatic century While this book represents the work of expert scholars it is also accessible to non specialists with an interest in travel writing and China and care has been taken to explain the critical terms and ideas deployed in the essays from recent scholarship of the travel genre

The Arabian Desert in English Travel Writing Since 1950 Jenny Walker, 2022-12-30 Broadly this book is about the Arabian desert as the locus of exploration by a long tradition of British travellers that includes T E Lawrence and Wilfred Thesiger more specifically it is about those who since 1950 have followed in their literary footsteps In analysing modern works covering a land greater than the sum of its geographical parts the discussion identifies outmoded tropes that continue to impinge upon the perception of the Middle East today while recognising that the laboured binaries of East and West desert and sown noble and savage have outrun their course Where however only a barren legacy of latent Orientalism may have been expected the author finds instead a rich seam of writing that exhibits diversity of purpose and insight contributing to contemporary discussions on travel and tourism intercultural representation and environmental awareness By addressing a lack of scholarly attention towards recent additions to the genre this study illustrates for the benefit of students of travel literature or indeed anyone interested in Arabia how desert writing under the emerging configurations of globalisation postcolonialism and ecocriticism acts as a microcosm of the kinds of ethical and emotional dilemmas confronting today's travel writers in the world's most extreme regions Pynchon

Literature and Science Wai-chee Dimock, Priscilla Wald, 2002 The goal of this special issue of American Literature is to encourage scholars in both the sciences and the humanities to estrange themselves from their regular ways of thinking Committed to understanding what each discipline has to teach the other the contributors explore the changes in topics approaches and methodologies in the sciences technology and the humanities that surface when scholars take seriously the mandate to consider the basic assumptions of each field from the other point of view The essays address the mutual impact of literature and science through a range of issues geek novels as a subgenre of literature about science the relationship of narrative form to risk analysis and ecological disaster the impact of realism and contemporary developments in neurology and brain biology and the use of technology in the humanities The essays also examine how the humanities explore scientific issues such as in vitro fertilization and human existence cloning and molecular biology and the concept of time Contributors Jay Clayton Wai Chee Dimock N Katherine Hayles Ursula Heise Randall Knoper Martha Nell Smith Stephanie Turner Priscilla Wald Robyn Wiegman Traveling Subjects Polish Association for American Studies. Helmers, Tilar J. Mazzeo, 2007 The collected essays that comprise The Traveling and Writing Self examine the critical relationship between the journey the author of the travel narrative and published and private texts Contributors draw attention to the performed nature of the travel writer TM's self emphasizing that the carefully crafted persona of the traveler protagonist is a fiction The traveler TM's identity is frequently in flux negotiating between social convention literary convention personal motivations and nationalist agendas The Traveling and Writing Self is a notable addition to studies of travel writing because the contributors explore several genres in addition to the traditional accounts of the journey these genres include histories of exploration diaries memoir poetry film and short story Not limited to a specific historical era or geographical location individual chapters explore the work of Rebecca Solnit Isak Dinesen Melinda Atwood William Byrd E J Pratt Beatrice Grimshaw and Louisa May Alcott From each we learn that
