"I've tried many, and I mean many AI content software platforms. I didn't fully embrace AI content until I tried Koala. Koala is the first platform that produced full blog posts from a simple keyword prompt that is good enough to publish on my niche sites. The content output is ridiculously in-depth and structured with heading tags, plenty of spot-on subheadings that make articles almost always publish-ready. My current use is to create engaging, helpful content for social media followers."
