Bringing the Neuroscience of Learning to Online Teaching Tracey Tokuhama-Espinosa, 2021 This practical resource draws on the best of neuroscience to inform decision making about digital learning. We live in unprecedented times that have pushed schools to make many decisions that have been postponed for years. For the first time since the inception of public education, teachers have been invited to redesign the learning landscape by integrating an intelligent selection of digital educational resources and changing pedagogical approaches based on information from the learning sciences. This handbook will help teachers make the most of this opportunity by showing them how to use digital tools to differentiate learning, employ alternative options to standardized testing, personalize learning, prioritize social emotional skills, and inspire students to think more critically. The author identifies some gems in quality teaching that are amplified in online contexts, including 40 evidence-informed pedagogies from the learning sciences. This book will help all educators move online teaching and learning to new levels of confidence and success.

Book Features: Provides quick references to key planning tools like decision trees, graphics, app recommendations, and step-by-step directions to help teachers create their own online learning courses. Guides teachers through a 12-step model for instructional design that meets both national and international standards. Shows educators how to use an all-new Digital Resource Taxonomy to select resources and how to research and keep them up to date. Explains why good instructional design and educational technology are complementary with best practices in learning sciences like Mind Brain and Education Science Shares ways teachers can leverage technology to create more time for the personalized aspects of learning Shows educators how to design online courses with tools that let all students begin at their own starting points and how to differentiate homework Offers evidence informed pedagogies to make online intimate and authentic for students     Two Decades of TEL.
