Ailsa Cameron,2001-01-01 The fundamental role of housing in community care has long been acknowledged However progress in achieving any real integration of housing and social care has been slow The Crossing the Housing and Care Divide Programme was launched in 1995 with the aim of stimulating innovative service development that would enable the potential of the housing role at the centre of community care to be recognised The challenges faced and lessons learnt by these projects are documented in this report Crossing the housing and care divide also provides a useful summary of policy changes over the last six years and concludes with national regional and local good practice recommendations for interagency working use of new technology user involvement management quality and value for money and sustainability This report will be of interest to professionals and managers working in the policy fields of housing community care primary care and older people This will include housing professionals members of Primary Care Groups and Trusts social services departments voluntary organisations and local councillors Housing Policy In The United States Jean Conway,2003-08-27

Housing Policy An Introduction has been completely revised for its fourth edition Describing and explaining policies as well as analysing recent changes this book provides an accessible introduction to housing policy Housing Policy Paul Balchin,Maureen Rhoden,2019-01-09 Now in its fourth edition this textbook has been completely revised to examine the current state of housing policy in the UK Exploring developments in housing policy made since Labour s 1997 electoral victory the book addresses current issues including the brownfield versus greenfield debate the phasing out of renovation grants the transfer of local authority housing to registered social landlords boom slump and boom in the owner occupied sector Other topics addressed range from regional policy and housing across the UK to social exclusion community care and homelessness Social Care and Housing Ian Shaw,David Clapham,1998 Drawing out the implications for policy and practice from the latest research in housing and social work this volume illustrates the lack of communication between practitioners that is hindering service provision and provides suggestions for improving current practice The contributors examine the relationship of such factors as youth gender race education poverty health social exclusion and housing developments to the provision of housing for those in need Social workers have many clients including young people leaving care offenders people with disabilities or mental health problems and those at risk of domestic violence for example who require intervention on their behalf to meet their housing needs Social Care and Housing argues that professionals need to be aware of the role of wider social problems in particular poor housing in reinforcing the deprivation of the lowest income groups that form the bulk of service users The contributors suggest that raising the profile of housing and welfare research within the social services and encouraging practitioners and educators to introduce a broader social context into practice would improve understanding of the relationship between housing and social care They also examine strategies for formulating coherent responses to client problems and explore the development of practice at the boundaries of social care and housing

Governing Independence and Expertise Morag McDermont, 2010-04-09 Shortlisted for the SLSA Hart Socio Legal Book Prize 2011 Governing Independence and Expertise tells the story of the not for profit housing sector in England focusing on its representative body the National Housing Federation The story tells of how the Federation and associations influenced their own space of governing through deploying discourses of independence and expertise how being governed and governing become at times one and the same The National Federation of Housing Societies was born in 1935 out of the apparent failure of housing societies associations and charitable trusts to tackle the problem of the slums Its story was a familiar one organisations have often set up collective structures to facilitate intervention in government Viewed historically the success of the project is nevertheless remarkable given that the housing association sector is now a major force in social housing provision Moreover housing associations have pioneered many programmes which are central to our modernised welfare state such as private finance independence and entrepreneurialism Through the story of the Federation the book examines the role of non governmental actors in mechanisms of governing engaging contemporary debates about public services and the nature of the social the limits of the role of the not for profit sector the impact of private funders and the disappearance of the notion of public

Intermediate and Continuing Care Brenda Roe, Roger Beech, 2008-04-15 Intermediate care comprises strategies which allow early discharge from acute care prevent admission or re admission to acute care and avoid bed blocking in both acute and long term residential care It encompasses a range of short term options including rapid response hospital at home residential rehabilitation supported discharge and day rehabilitation Continuing Care is delivered on a long term basis in a variety of settings and often includes an element of rehabilitation Although these two types of care have distinct objectives

they are interrelated as changes in the supply of one type of care may affect demands for the other In addition from a patient perspective intermediate and continuing care might be seen as part of the continuum of care options that are supplied to meet their needs This book argues for consideration of intermediate and continuing care as part of the care continuum that provides integrated care adopting whole system approaches This edited volume explores policy practice and current issues in intermediate and continuing care It will be of interest to all health and social care professionals involved in the provision and planning of care for older people It falls in three parts intermediate care continuing care and a shorter section on patient and public involvement and future directions Housing ,1996 Community Care Robin Means,Sally Richards,Randall Smith,2008-01-11 This new edition has been updated to reflect recent shifts in community and social care whilst still providing the authoritative account of its historical development Particular attention is paid to partnerships between health and social care the regulation of social care direct payments and individual budgets and user carer empowerment

Housing, Care and Inheritance Misa Izuhara,2008-09-30 Housing Care and Inheritance draws on the author's long standing research into housing issues surrounding the ageing society a phenomenon which is now a concern in many mature economies If an adult child provides care for their elderly parent should that person be rewarded If so should they inherit their parent's house or a larger share of the assets The generational contract is often influenced by cultural norms family traditions social policy and housing market so it is negotiated differently in different societies and at different times Such generational contract is however breaking down as a result of socio economic and demographic changes Drawn from the two part study funded by the UK Economic Social Research Council Misa Izuhara explores the myth and the changing patterns of the particular exchange of long term care and housing assets between older parents and their adult children in Britain and Japan Highly international and comparative in perspectives this study addresses important sociological as well as policy questions regarding intergenerational relations involving housing wealth long term care and inheritance Implementing the Social Model of Disability Colin Barnes,Geoffrey Mercer,2004 Our Homes, Our Lives Keith Sumner,2002
